— Daduction for living in a prescribed cons
Deduction for living in a prescribed zone If you live in the Northwest Territories, Nunavut, Yukon, or another prescribed northern zone for more than six months in a row beginning or ending in 2006, you can claim:
 $7.50 for each day that you live in the prescribed northern zone, or $15 for each day that you live in the prescribed northern zone if, during that time, you live in a dwelling that you maintain, and you are the only person living in that dwelling who is claiming this deduction.
Employees living in a prescribed intermediate zone can claim 50% of the total of the above amounts.
For more information, get Form T2222, Northern Residents Deductions, and the publication (T4039) Northern Residents Deductions – Places in Prescribed Zones.
— Total income less than total claim amount
Will your total income for the year from all employers and payers be less than your total claim amount on line 12? Yes No
If yes, your employer or payer will not deduct tax from your earnings.
— Additional tax to be deducted ————————————————————————————————————
You may want to have more tax deducted from each payment, especially if you receive other income, including non-employment income such as CPP or QPP benefits, or Old Age Security pension. By doing this, you may not have to pay as much tax when you file your income tax return.
To choose this option, state the amount of additional tax you want to have deducted from each payment. To change this deduction later, you will have to complete a new TD1 form, Personal Tax Credits Return .
— Reduction in tax deductions ————————————————————————————————————
You can ask to have less tax deducted if on your income tax return you are eligible for deductions or non-refundable tax credits that are not listed on this form (for example, periodic contributions to a Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP), child care or employment expenses, and charitable donations). To make this request, complete Form T1213, Request to Reduce Tax Deductions at Source , to get a letter of authority from your tax services office.
Give the letter of authority to your employer or payer. You do not need a letter of authority if your employer deducts RRSP contributions from your salary.
— Non-residents ————————————————————————————————————
If you are a non-resident of Canada, tick this box and answer the question below. If you are unsure of your residency status, call the International Tax Services Office at 1-800-267-5177 . Will you include 00% or more of your world income when determining your toyable income carried in Canada in
Will you include 90% or more of your world income when determining your taxable income earned in Canada in 2006? If yes , complete the front page. If no , enter "0" on line 12 on the front page and do not complete lines 2 to 11 Yes as you are not entitled to the personal tax credits.
Income from other employers or payers
If you have more than one employer or payer at the same time and you have already claimed personal tax credit amounts on another TD1 form for 2006, you can choose not to claim them again. By doing this, you may not have to pay as much tax when you file your income tax return. To choose this option, enter "0" on line 12 on the front page and do not complete lines 2 to 11.
— Certification ————————————————————————————————————
I certify that the information given in this return is, to the best of my knowledge, correct and complete.
Signature
It is a serious offence to make a false return.
— Provincial or territorial personal tax credits return
In addition to this federal personal tax credits return, you may have to complete a provincial or territorial personal tax credits return.
If your claim amount on line 12 on the front page is more than $9,039, complete a provincial or territorial TD1 form in addition to this form. If you are an employee, use the TD1 form for your province or territory of employment. If you are a pensioner, use the TD1 form for your province or territory of residence. Your employer or payer will use both this form and your most recent provincial or territorial TD1 form to determine your tax deductions.
If you are claiming the basic personal amount only (your claim amount on line 12 on the front page is $9,039), do not complete a provincial or territorial TD1 form. Your employer or payer will deduct provincial or territorial taxes after allowing the provincial or territorial basic personal amount.
lote: If you are a Saskatchewan resident supporting children under 18 at any time during 2006, you may be entitled to claim the child amount on the 2006 Saskatchewan Personal Tax Credits Return (TD1SK). Therefore, you may want to complete the TD1SK form even If you entered "0" on line 12 on the front page because you are a non-resident and you will not include 90% or more of your world income when determining your taxable income earned in Canada in 2006, do not complete a provincial or territorial TD1 form. You are if you are claiming the basic personal amount only on the front page of this form (your claim amount on line 12 is $9,039).
