Introduction

The Guide to Federal Government Programs, Services and Products for Women contains brief descriptions of a variety of initiatives that are currently available to help improve the status of women and children in Canada. Included are initiatives available both to individual women and to organizations which work with women. Each description lists basic information as well as key contacts and Internet addresses for additional information. The Guide also references 11 other federal government guides to help women access additional non gender-specific programs and services.

When reviewing the information, please keep in mind that free public access to the Internet is available at many schools, libraries, employment centres and through Community Access Program (CAP) sites located in many rural and remote communities across Canada.

Readers are invited to provide comments and suggestions for improvements by completing the feedback sheet at the back of this guide and sending it to:
