□ What's Happening near by?

- There is a large public conference and celebration that highlights the influence everyone has on reducing greenhouse gases and climate change, featuring speakers and special presentations. It is called Mtl 05: The Day Before: the World is Holding its Breath. Join the festivities at the Metropolis starting at 8:00 p.m.
- Visit green buildings at 740 Bel-Air and the Université du Québec à Montréal from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Departure from Lionel-Groulx metro station and return via the Place-des-Arts metro station. The tours are in French. For more info: www.cagbc.org/chapters/quebec.php

□ Culture Today

- Visit the central passageway of the Palais des Congrès for the NorthSouthEastWest Photo Exhibit on the Environment from The Climate Group in partnership with the British Council. The exhibit is a thought-provoking look by major photographers showing the impact of climate change on different parts of the planet.
- The power of the Internet is bringing together the wealth and diversity of Canadian heritage to people in their homes, schools and workplaces. The National Knowledge Preservation Centre, through the Virtual Museum of Canada (www.virtualmuseum.ca), Library and Archives (www.collectionscanada.ca) and their respective partners are promoting the pooling and safeguarding of Canadian knowledge, heritage, culture, experience and skills, for current and future generations. From November 28 to December 2, 2005, at the Guy-Favreau Complex.
