E-Learning

Essential. Flexible. Online.

When it comes to essential work & life learning, Public Service employees are now a step ahead. Through the Campusdirect catalogue, you can access a host of quality online courses and resources, when and where you prefer, selected specifically for Public Service employees like you.

Is E-Learning for you?

-  Do you enjoy learning on your own?
-  Do you like variety in how you learn?
-  Do you want flexibility in when and where you learn?
-  Do you want to acquire new knowledge and skills but cannot easily attend traditional classroom courses?

If you answered “yes” to any of the above questions, then you should consider visiting us at www.campusdirect.gc.ca to see how e-learning can help you meet your personal and professional learning goals. Try our sample courses, such as The Passage to E-Learning, to experience online learning first hand and identify your own personal learning style.

What is Campusdirect?

Campusdirect is an innovative e-learning portal centred on self-directed learning resources that address the common learning needs of Public Service employees. Campusdirect also links to a wealth of e-learning resources, including guides, websites, associations, professional journals, conferences and special events, plus our electronic learning resource, CampusXpress.

Over 350 great English and French products

Our products are custom-designed by government e-learning specialists, or come from leading e-learning providers. Subjects focus on the common learning needs of the Public Service.
