

Agreement on Social Security between Canada and Antigua and Barbuda

Qualifying for Canadian and Antigua and Barbuda benefits

The Agreement

The Agreement on Social Security between Canada and Antigua and Barbuda came into force on January 1, 1994.

The Agreement may help you qualify for Canadian and Antigua and Barbuda old age, disability or survivor benefits.

Social security legislation and agreements are complex. This sheet contains only general information and may not describe all the provisions that apply to your situation.

Qualifying for a Canadian benefit

The Canadian pension programs included in the Agreement are the Canada Pension Plan and the Old Age Security program.

Under the Canada Pension Plan, you can receive a benefit when you retire or if you become disabled. The Plan may also pay benefits to your survivors after you die.

To qualify for a benefit, you normally must have contributed to the Plan, which came into force on January 1, 1966, for a minimum period.

If you do not qualify for a Canada Pension Plan benefit, Canada will consider periods credited under the pension program of Antigua and Barbuda as periods of contribution to the Canada Pension Plan.

The Old Age Security program covers most persons who live or have lived in Canada. The Old Age Security pension is payable at the age of 65 to persons who meet certain residence conditions. To qualify for this pension in Canada, you normally must have lived in this country for at least 10 years after the age of 18. You normally need 20 years of residence in Canada after the same age to receive an Old Age Security pension outside Canada.

What happens if you do not qualify for a Canadian Old Age Security pension because you have not lived in Canada for the minimum number of years? Under the Agreement, Canada will consider periods credited under the pension program of Antigua and Barbuda, and periods of residence in Antigua and Barbuda after April 2, 1973, and after the age of 18, as periods of residence in Canada.

Qualifying for a benefit from Antigua and Barbuda

The pension program of Antigua and Barbuda is similar to the Canada Pension Plan and covers most employed and self-employed persons in Antigua and Barbuda.

Qualifying for Canadian and Antigua and Barbuda benefits

To qualify for a benefit under the pension program of Antigua and Barbuda, you normally must have contributed to the program for a minimum number of weeks. For example, to qualify for an Antigua and Barbuda old age pension, you normally must have paid or have been credited with contributions to the program for at least 500 weeks.

If you have not contributed to the program for the minimum period, you may not qualify for an Antigua and Barbuda benefit. However, to determine eligibility for an Antigua and Barbuda benefit under the Agreement, Antigua and Barbuda will consider periods of contribution to the Canada Pension Plan from April 2, 1973, and periods of residence in Canada from that same date and after the age of 18, as credited periods under the pension program of Antigua and Barbuda.

Payment of your benefits

You may qualify for a benefit from Canada or Antigua and Barbuda, or both. Under the Agreement, each country will pay a benefit based solely on your periods of contribution or periods of residence under its pension program.
