

B.C. Interest Relief

British Columbia Student Assistance Program

Instructions and Application

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Ministry of Advanced Education
Student Services Branch

The Program

The British Columbia Interest Relief program helps former students who are having difficulty repaying their British Columbia student loans because of low income. The program protects your credit rating and ensures your student loan debt does not grow.

While you are on this program, interest will not accrue on your loan, and you are not required to make payments on either the principal or the interest. B.C. interest relief is generally approved for six months to 30 months, and extensions are available if you have been out of school for less than five years.

ELIGIBILITY

To apply for and receive B.C. interest relief, you must:

- Live in Canada or be part of in an international internship program.
- Be repaying your student loans.
- Have monthly family gross income (income before taxes and other deductions) and monthly student loan payments within set guidelines. (The income guideline chart is attached to the B.C. interest relief application.)
- Have not received the lifetime maximum 30 months of B.C. interest relief. Once you have been on the program 30 months, B.C. interest relief may be extended up to 54 months if you:
 - Have been out of school for less than five years; and
 - Continue to meet the eligibility criteria for B.C. interest relief even if the loan repayment period was extended from 10 to 15 years.
- Have B.C. student loans that are less than five months in default. If your loan has been transferred to Revenue Services of B.C., you are no longer eligible.

Note: If you declare bankruptcy after May 11, 2004, you are still eligible for the program.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

If you are chosen to be audited, you will be advised in writing and will be required to submit proof of income as indicated in Section 2 of the application. Although you no longer need to attach proof of gross family income or monthly loan payment to your application, it is strongly recommended that you keep this information readily available. If you do not respond to an audit request:

- Further eligibility for the program will be denied.
- Your loan will be reinstated to immediate repayment status.
- Interest accrued while you were on the B.C. Interest Relief program will be added onto the outstanding loan principal.

- You are responsible for making all loan payments until your application is approved.
- If you make a payment while you are receiving B.C. interest relief, it will be applied directly to the principal amount of your loan.
- Once your B.C. interest relief period expires, your obligation to make monthly loan principal and interest payments on your B.C. student loans will resume, and funds will be withdrawn from your bank account.
- The length of time required to pay back your loans will be increased for every B.C. interest relief period you are approved for.
- If you wish to receive interest relief for your Canada Student Loan, you must apply through the National Student Loan Service Centre separately.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q&A:

When can I apply for British Columbia interest relief?

You can apply for B.C. interest relief any time during your loan repayment period. A B.C. interest relief period cannot start before you enter repayment (the first day of the seventh month following your last period of study end date).

Q&A:

Where do I submit my application?

Where you submit applications will depend on the type of loan you negotiated last. If the last negotiated B.C. student loan was a direct lend loan (negotiated after Aug. 1, 2000), the B.C. interest relief application must be submitted to British Columbia Student Loan Service Bureau. If the last negotiated B.C. student loan was a risk sharing loan (negotiated after Aug. 1, 1995, but before Aug. 1, 2000), the application must be submitted to your lender - the Royal Bank, CIBC or Scotia Bank. If the last negotiated B.C. student loan was a guaranteed loan (negotiated before Aug. 1, 1995), the application must be submitted to the Student Services Branch, Ministry of Advanced Education.

Q&A:

How is my eligibility determined?

Your eligibility is determined by taking into consideration your family size, monthly gross family income and monthly totals of B.C. student loans, Canada Student Loans, and other provincial/territorial student loan payments. This information is then cross-referenced with the income table. For example:

- Your family has three members.
- You and your spouse's combined monthly loan payments are $300.
- Your monthly gross family income must be less than $3,683 for you to be eligible for B.C. interest relief.

Q&A:

What happens if I submit an incomplete application?

You will be advised by letter that your application is incomplete. You will be asked to respond within 30 days from the date of the letter. If you fail to respond, your application will be cancelled.

Q&A:

Am I responsible for making loan payments while waiting for my application to be processed?

Yes, you are responsible for making your monthly payments when they are due, while your application is being processed.

Q&A:

Is interest accruing on my loan while I am on B.C. interest relief?

No, the interest is not accruing on your loan while you are on the program. If you make payments on your loan while on B.C. interest relief, the total payment amount will be applied towards your outstanding principal balance.

How will I be notified of the results of my application?

You will receive a written notice telling you whether your application was approved or denied. If B.C. interest relief is approved on your direct lend loan and you have other B.C. loans (risk and/or guaranteed), you must mail/fax a copy of this letter to your lender(s).

I am four months behind in payments on my B.C. student loan. Can I still apply for B.C. interest relief?

Yes, you can. You can be up to five months in arrears on your B.C. student loan and still apply for B.C. interest relief. If you are approved, your start date can be backdated by two months from the date you signed your B.C. interest relief application and up to an additional three months worth of interest owed will be added to the outstanding loan principal.

If my financial situation has not changed, when should I reapply for a subsequent B.C. interest relief period?

You should reapply during the last month of your current B.C. interest relief period. You will receive a letter 30 days before your B.C. interest relief period expires.

If my application is turned down, can I appeal?

The province will consider an appeal only when the borrower and/or spouse have had exceptional expenses due to unforeseen and/or unavoidable circumstances. Submit your appeal to the Student Services Branch, Appeal Unit. It must include:

- A written request explaining the exceptional circumstances related to income and/or expenses incurred during the three-month period referenced on your B.C. interest relief application
- A copy of the B.C. interest relief application (and supportive documentation) submitted to, and declined by, your lender or the Student Services Branch
- A copy of the letter from your lender or the Student Services Branch explaining why your application was turned down.
