RED TAPE REDUCTION IN NEW BRUNSWICK

CHALLENGE	SOLUTION	RESULTS
Implementing the recommendations of the Report of Red Tape Reduction issued by the private sector-led committee in 2000 and supported by government in 2001.	Implementation of the recommendations by government and supported by business.	Government has gone beyond the original intent of the committee's report.

New Brunswick has made significant progress in the reduction of red tape, through the cooperation of government and business. The New Brunswick approach has been a success due to the leadership, partnership and government commitment to business.

Exceeding the expectations of the Red Tape Reduction Committee's report has led to greater accomplishments by:

- Improving service to businesses:
Enhanced Directory of Services
- Focusing on highly regulated industries:
Public/Private Working Group on Trucking Services Improvements
- Listening to New Brunswick businesses:
Construction Industry/Inspections
- Helping businesses grow and prosper:
Business Impact Test

In addition, businesses are encouraged to express any concerns with how government does business with them by identifying their issues through their associations or directly to government.

QUOTE

"Reducing red tape is not a one-time event. We want to make it a permanent part of the government culture in New Brunswick. That's why we have established the Office of Red Tape Reduction to ensure these recommendations are implemented, and to identify future opportunities to reduce the burden of regulations, rules and taxation on New Brunswickers."

Hon. Bernard Lord

Premier of New Brunswick

"I am encouraged they (government) have gone beyond our recommendations and are looking for new ways to reduce red tape."
