
Regulatory Time Frames for Environmental Assessment

The Environmental Assessment Regulations and the Environmental Assessment Board Regulations, pursuant to Part IV of the Nova Scotia Environment Act, set out the time frames for environmental assessment.¹

Regulated time frames for environmental assessment ensures greater certainty throughout an assessment, provides the proponent with a clear understanding of the time it takes to complete an assessment and allows for consistent public participation.

The time frames for environmental assessment differ depending on the Class of undertaking being assessed and the amount of information required of the proponent. Where an environmental assessment is also required by other jurisdictions, the process and the time frames may be modified to allow for the effective coordination or harmonization of the environmental assessment.

At any stage of the environmental assessment, an undertaking may be referred to an alternate dispute resolution (ADR) procedure where the Minister believes an ADR technique is appropriate for the resolution of a dispute or an issue. The Minister may adjust the time limits in the regulations to accommodate the ADR.

If the undertaking is approved, the proponent must commence work on the undertaking within 2 years of the approval.

Unless an extension is granted in writing by the Minister or the Administrator, failure of the proponent to publish a notice, provide information, submit documents or commence work on the undertaking following approval in the prescribed manner and within the prescribed time limits, is an offence and renders the registration of the undertaking pursuant to subsection 9(1) null and void.

CLASS 1 UNDERTAKINGS
