Highlight tables

Major characteristics

Beginning with the population and dwelling counts, these tables will be available for each of the eight major releases. Available on each official day of release they will present information highlights by topic via key indicators for various levels of geography. For example, these could include percent distributions and percentage change from 2001. The tables allow users to perform simple rank and sort functions.

What's new?

- Possible expansion from 2001 based on ongoing consultation and research (i.e. new indicators, additional geographies etc.).
- Available to download into a comma-separated ASCII format (CSV) option.

Geography

Proposed levels of geography:

Canada, province and territory, census metropolitan area/census agglomeration (CMA/CA), and their zones of influence (where applicable), census division (CD), census subdivision (CSD) with population counts of 5,000 and above.

Internet access

Available for free to all users via the Internet:

- Hypertext Mark-up Language (HTML) format;
- Print-friendly format;
- Comma-separated ASCII format (CSV).

Other delivery methods

Contact Statistics Canada's National Contact Centre.

Availability

From 1st quarter 2007 through 3rd quarter 2008.

Price / Price range

Topic-based tabulations

Major characteristics

This series of cross-tabulations will present a portrait of Canada based on the various census topics. They will range in complexity and will be available for various levels of geography. A number of the tabulations will be available on day of release for each topic, while others will follow one to several months later. Content varies from:

- A simple overview of the country;
- Simple to more complex cross-tabulations;
- Current and previous census data.

What's new?

- Standardization of variable content where possible.
- Streamlined and better integrated content to promote tables for which there is a more prominent demand.
- Better designed set of comprehensive tabulations to be more easily viewed and accessed from the Internet.

Geography

Various levels of geography (dependent on type of tabulation - some available on day of release and some to follow): Canada, province and territory, federal electoral district (FED), census metropolitan area/census agglomeration (CMA/CA), census division/census subdivision (CD/CSD), census tract (CT), forward sortation area (FSA), dissemination area (DA).

Internet access

- Available for free to all users via the Internet:

Canada, province and territory and census metropolitan area/census agglomeration (CMA/CA), and where possible, selected census divisions/census subdivisions (CD/CSD). Please note that there may be tabulations at these levels of geography that have been deemed too complex for "general public access".
- Pre-determined key stakeholders and partners will be provided with varying expanded Internet access privileges in order to obtain additional tabulations at no charge (i.e. more complex, lower levels of geography, additional format - Beyond 20/20). For this subset of tabulations, the general public will be directed to the Statistics Canada online catalogue listing to purchase for a fee. Please note that a number of libraries across the country will have expanded Internet access privileges and therefore, access for the general public on site.

Other delivery methods

Various electronic formats (i.e. Beyond 20/20). Contact Statistics Canada's National Contact Centre.

Availability

From 3rd quarter 2007 through 1st quarter 2009. Some available on day of release and some to follow throughout dissemination cycle.

Price / Price range

Some available for free to all users via the Internet. Others for a fee (pricing to be determined) – see note above under "Internet access".

Aboriginal population profile

Major characteristics

Provides a specific statistical overview based on a number of variables and/or groups of variables for the Aboriginal identity population for various communities in Canada where the Aboriginal identity population is at least 250 persons.

Aboriginal identity refers to those persons who reported identifying with at least one Aboriginal group, i.e. North American Indian, Métis or Inuit, and/or those who reported being a Treaty Indian or a Registered Indian as defined by the Indian Act of Canada and/or who were members of an Indian Band or First Nation.

This product will be released in two phases. The first portion of information will be disseminated with the official Aboriginal release (1st quarter 2008) and will include data releases up to and including the Aboriginal release. The final portion will follow the last release of Income (2nd quarter 2008). The product will include approximately 200 data lines. A mapping feature is available for viewing the location of a community within Canada.

What's new?

- Ability to compare any two regions found within the Aboriginal population profile.
- Ability to build a "custom view".
- Possible expansion of content.
- Option to initiate "new search" from every page.
- A download to comma-separated ASCII format (CSV) option.
- Print-friendly format.
- Improved mapping capabilities.

Geography

Canada, province and territory, selected census metropolitan area/census agglomeration (CMA/CA), census division/census subdivision (CD/CSD), dissolved census subdivision (CSD), designated place (DPL), health region.

Public use microdata files (PUMF)

Major characteristics

The census microdata files provide unique access to a small sample of non-aggregated data. They contain samples of anonymous responses to the 2006 Census questionnaire. The files have been carefully scrutinized to ensure the complete confidentiality of the individual responses.

The PUMF user can group and manipulate these variables to suit data and research requirements. Tabulations excluded from other census products can be created or relationships between variables can be analysed using different statistical tests. The PUMF provides access to a comprehensive social and economic database about Canada and its people.

Most of the subject matter covered by the census is included in the microdata files. To ensure the respondents' anonymity, geographic identifiers will be restricted to provinces/territories and large metropolitan areas.

What's new?

Number of files to be produced, specific content, format and levels of geography available - to be determined.

Technical reports
Major characteristics	There will be two formalized technical reports produced for the 2006 Census: Sampling and Weighting, and Coverage. The content of these reports are aimed at moderate and sophisticated users. The Sampling and Weighting technical report will present the method of sampling and weighting used in the 2006 Census as well as its effect on the results. This report identifies bias, discrepancies observed and explains the probable causes. The Coverage technical report will present the coverage errors which occurred when persons or dwellings were missed by the 2006 Census or enumerated in error. Coverage errors are one of the most important types of error, since they affect not only the accuracy of the counts of the various census universes, but also the accuracy of all of the census data describing the characteristics of these universes.

	Digital geographic files
	Digital boundary files
Major characteristics	Digital boundary files present the boundaries used for the 2006 Census. They often extend as straight lines into bodies of water. They provide a framework for mapping and spatial analysis and are traditionally used with commercially available geographic information systems (GIS) or other mapping software. The files may not be suitable for mapping or display where realistic shoreline is required.

Custom cross-tabulations

*M*ajor characteristics

Custom cross-tabulations from the 100% and 20% sample (33% in 1971) databases are available for census years 1971 to 2006. They are produced to meet the needs of individual users, according to their specified requirements in terms of content, geography, format and output medium. This includes the derivation of new variables and the creation of user-defined geographies. Experienced census consultants are available to assist and advise clients in developing the custom tabulation that best meets their data requirements.

Statistics Canada can also produce custom place of work and mode of transportation products from the 1971 and 1981 through 2006 census databases.

Confidentiality constraints apply where necessary.

	Semi-custom profiles
	Basic profile
Major characteristics	Semi-custom profiles enable users to have access to a fixed / predetermined content of profile data for geographic area(s) and in the output medium of their choice. The profiles provide a broad overview of the selected geographic area(s). The data they contain are presented for various census characteristics pertaining to individuals, families, households and dwellings, in a compact and easy-to-use format. Information such as counts, rates and averages provide indicators that can be easily compared across geographic areas. Semi-custom profiles are valuable reference tools for users requiring quick summaries of numerous characteristics for selected areas. They are particularly suited for entry into systems for basic data analysis, including comparisons, graphing and mapping. Combine characteristics from the basic demographic data collected from 100% of the population, and the detailed socio-economic data collected from a 20% sample (33% in 1971). Basic profiles can be produced from the 1971 and 1981 through 2006 Census databases.
