Referenced Clauses: (Gwich'in agreement)	9.1.1, 9.1.2, also definitions, 18.5.3, 3.1.10

ACTIVITIES (in sequence)	RESPONSIBILITY	TIMING (start/finish)
1. Design system of accounting for resource royalties received by government	DIAND	by settlement legislation
2. Remit payments to the Gwich'in Tribal Council	DIAND	quarterly
3. Provide annual statement to the Gwich'in Tribal Council	DIAND	annually

ANNEX A

- | | | |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|---------------|
| 4. The Gwich'in may request a verification of the accuracy of the information in the annual statements | Gwich'in Tribal Council | at discretion |
| 5. Accuracy of information in annual statements verified | Auditor-General | as requested |
| 6. Auditor-General's report sent to Gwich'in Tribal Council | DIAND | |

Planning Assumptions:

- The royalties will be paid quarterly based on the amount actually received by government in the previous quarter.
- Mining royalties are received not later than 10 months after the end of a mine's fiscal year end (usually during October, since most mines use December 31 as year end). For example, where mining royalties for 1992 are received in October, 1993, the payment to the Gwich'in will be made during the quarterly payment which follows the receipt of the payment.
- If, after an audit conducted by DIAND, government receives additional royalties the payment to the Gwich'in will be calculated and paid on the basis of the year for which those royalties were due (ie. if an audit in 1994 finds an amount due to government for 1992 the payment to the Gwich'in will be calculated on the basis that the payment is for 1992). Under current legislation, government is not paid interest on late or overdue payments of royalties by producers and in such cases government will not pay interest to the Gwich'in. If in the future government receives interest in such situations, any such receipts will be considered as amounts due to and received by government and the Gwich'in will receive the appropriate amounts. Nothing in this paragraph is intended to prevent any proper claims for interest by the Gwich'in in other cases.
- If, after an audit, DIAND owes a refund to a company, the appropriate percentage will be deducted from the next quarterly payment to the Gwich'in based on the royalties received for the year for which the refund was owed.
- When asked to verify the accuracy of the information in the annual statements, the Auditor-General will verify whether the figures used (ie. amounts of royalty received by the Crown, calculation of Gwich'in share) are correct.
- In the case royalties being received for a period which straddles the year for which the Gwich'in share is paid, or in the case of a partial year after settlement legislation, the royalties will be apportioned on a pro-rated basis (ie. based on days in the period for which the royalty was paid).

ANNEX D

COMMUNICATION AND INFORMATION STRATEGY

COMMUNICATION AND INFORMATION STRATEGY

1. PUBLIC ENVIRONMENT

A requirement of the Gwich'in Comprehensive Land Claim Agreement is that it be accompanied by an Implementation Plan which describes a communication and information strategy to inform interested parties of the content of the plan and the agreement.

A functional part of the implementation is the communication of such a plan. Direct involvement of the major players in transmitting information to their respective clients will increase the odds toward successful implementation because the level of understanding among all target groups determines the success rate.

Settlement of the Gwich'in land claim is a priority of the parties to the agreement. A smooth implementation of the settlement, through effective communications, will make the process a more positive experience.

Communications initiatives surrounding the implementation process must be a "nuts and bolts", "grass roots" attempt to inform disparate target audiences of the implementation process. Careful targeting of audiences and use of the most effective media for presentation of information is essential.

2. TARGET AUDIENCES

Gwich'in Leadership and Beneficiaries

Because the implementation of the Gwich'in agreement affects the Gwich'in most directly, leadership involvement is very important to ensure a smooth and equitable implementation of the settlement. Acceptance of the agreement by Gwich'in institutions and their assistance in implementation will depend on a clear understanding of the process.

Government of the Northwest Territories

Direct involvement of the Government of the Northwest Territories is also essential to the implementation process.

Federal Government

Because of the all-encompassing nature of the implementation process and the number of federal departments and employees involved, dissemination of information about the process throughout the federal government's regional offices in the Northwest Territories is necessary to provide the responsible staff with the proper tools and knowledge.

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development will also be directly responsible for informing other federal departments, Members of Parliament and Senators, audiences south of 60 and third-party interests, including industry and non-native residents. Most of the dissatisfaction for the claim will be found among third-party interest groups — effective communication will alleviate many problems that might arise and allow for smoother implementation.

Industry

Although industry will not be involved in the implementation process, it will be directly affected by the process and will have to operate within a new environment. Industry will therefore, want to be informed of any actions that will have an impact on them.

Northern Public

Communication of the implementation process is essential in maintaining harmony in the Gwich'in settlement area. It is through effective communications that the concept of fairness and equity of the Gwich'in agreement to all third-party and non-beneficiaries will be reinforced.

Media (Native and Northern)

Media coverage in the North during the implementation stages of the Gwich'in agreement will be extensive. The continuation of open and effective communications, such as joint news briefings on implementation developments, will ensure accurate coverage.

Southern Media/Public

Coverage in the south will be extensive for the signing of the Gwich'in agreement and the passage of settlement legislation but during the implementation process, southern media attention will undoubtedly wane. Distribution of information and media kits should, however, continue when new boards and committees are established and enabling legislation is passed.

3. COMMUNICATIONS OBJECTIVES

- Identify and convey to all target audiences the specific undertakings, responsibilities, costs, benefits and time frames involved in the implementation of the agreement.
- Outline the impact of the Gwich'in agreement on existing legislation and regulations, both federal and territorial.
- Stress that the final implementation plans were negotiated to implement the agreement; and will be managed by the Implementation Committee.

4. MESSAGES

- The Gwich'in agreement is balanced and fair, respecting the interests of the Gwich'in, non-beneficiaries and industry and it will be implemented in an efficient and considerate manner.
 - The specific undertakings, responsibilities, costs and time frames are ...
 - The results and effects of implementation on existing legislation, program delivery and regulations are ...

5. STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

A proactive communications approach will emphasize the accomplishments of negotiations that resulted in the Gwich'in Comprehensive Land Claim Agreement. Clear, timely and readily available information on the implementation process to people in the Gwich'in settlement area is a priority.

General information on implementation will be conveyed through media, interest groups, community information sessions and internal communications workshops immediately following Settlement Legislation.

Activities in support of implementation will be less event-driven and consist primarily of general public information measures.

6. ACTIVITIES

- A series of information sheets on the implementation process will be drafted by the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. These sheets will explain particular aspects of the implementation process in detail.
- Media briefings involving Ministers and Negotiators will occur with the signing of the Agreement, the passage of settlement legislation, and will follow key implementation sessions to announce the establishment of boards and committees.
- Workshops for government employees will be held to develop a broader understanding of the agreement.
- The use of local media, specifically the development of public service announcements (unpaid). Within normal departmental budgets, paid advertising on CBC radio and television, local native radio stations and the local papers should be explored.

7. PROCESS

- The principal activities (information sheets, media briefings, and development of public service announcements) will be coordinated by the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development in consultation with the Gwich'in Tribal Council, the Government of the Northwest Territories and other federal departments.

ANNEX E
