Pleasure Craft

Risk of collision on the St. Lawrence River

Modified image, Denis Chabot, © Le Québec en image, CCDMD

Large commercial vessels have limited manoeuvring capabilities. All pleasure craft, without exception, are to give the right-of-way to these vessels. As their speed is greater than what can be expected, look often and carefully all around you, especially behind. Communicate clearly your intentions and well in advance.

The visibility in the wheelhouse of a large vessel is often limited. Keep a safe distance away from these vessels to be seen.

Operate your pleasure craft in accordance with the collision regulations, your security is a stake.
