

Information Sheet for the retirement pension

This information sheet provides information on how to apply for a Canada Pension Plan (CPP) retirement pension. You may be able to receive your pension at any time after the month of your 60th birthday. If you wish, you may also use the Canadian Retirement Income Calculator. This tool is available at: servicecanada.gc.ca. It will give you information on Canada's public pensions and help you estimate how much income you may need for your retirement, according to your personal financial situation.

When do you want your pension to start?

You can start to receive your retirement pension at any time between the ages of 60 and 64, at age 65, or after age 65. (Refer to question 10 on the application)

A) Between the ages of 60 and 64

Between the ages of 60 and 64, the amount of your pension will be reduced by 6% for each year you are under age 65 (0.5% for each month). The maximum reduction is 30%. Please be aware that if you decide to receive your CPP pension before age 65, the reduced rate continues and is not re-adjusted to a full pension once you turn age 65.

To be eligible for your pension before age 65 you must either:

Have stopped working

This means that you are not working by the end of the month before your pension begins and during the month in which it begins. For example, for your pension to start in April, you have to stop working by the end of March and you cannot work during the month of April.

OR

Have low earnings

In the month before your pension begins and in the month it begins, you must earn less than $844.58 from employment or self-employment in each month. This is the monthly maximum CPP retirement pension payable at age 65 in 2006.

For example, for your pension to start in April 2006, you must earn less than $844.58 per month in March and in April.

Important

By checking the box in question 10a, you are confirming that you will have stopped working OR have earnings of less than $844.58 for the period required.

Your retirement pension will start the latest of the following dates:

- The month after your 60th birthday;
- The month after you apply for your pension;
- The 2nd month you stopped working or had earnings of less than $844.58;
- The month you indicate in question 10a, 10b or 10c.

The month after your pension starts, you can return to work without affecting your CPP pension payments. However, you can no longer pay into the CPP.

Information Sheet for the retirement pension

B) At the age of 65

If you choose to receive your pension at 65, there is no need to stop working or have earnings of less than $844.58; your pension will start the month after your 65th birthday.

C) After the age of 65

If you choose to start receiving your pension after the age of 65 there is no need to stop working or have earnings of less than $844.58. The amount of your pension will be increased by 6% for each year you are over the age of 65 (0.5% for each month), up to 30% at the age of 70. There is no increase for delaying your pension after age 70.

OR

You can choose to have your pension paid back to a maximum of 11 months from the date we receive your application, but no earlier than the month after your 65th birthday.

How to decide when to take your retirement pension?

The decision is yours. It depends on your personal circumstances. You should consider the following:

- whether or not you will work after the age of 60;
- how much and how long you have paid into the CPP so far;
- your other retirement income;
- if you have a company pension plan, check with your employer to see if it will be affected by your CPP pension;
- your current health and family health history; and
- your retirement plans.

What happens if you don't work after the age of 60 and delay receiving your pension until you turn 65?

For many in this situation, the extra 5 years of no earnings will lower the amount of CPP retirement pension payable at age 65. This is because the period you are expected to pay into the CPP continues until you start receiving your retirement pension. For this reason, you should carefully consider your personal situation when deciding when to start your CPP retirement pension.

When to apply

We suggest you apply approximately 6 months before you want your pension to start.

Proof of birth (Refer to question 4 on the application)

You do not need to provide proof of birth with your application. However the Canada Pension Plan has the right to request proof of birth at any time, when deemed necessary.

Information Sheet for the retirement pension

Children born after 1958 (Refer to question 11 on the application)

If you have children born after 1958, the Child Rearing Provision may help you receive a higher Canada Pension Plan benefit amount. The amount of benefits paid under the Canada Pension Plan is based on how long and how much you contributed to the Plan while you were working and in some cases your age when your benefit begins. Periods of time when you had no or low earnings normally result in a lower benefit amount.

If you were not working or had low earnings while caring for a child under the age of seven, the Child Rearing Provision can be used to exclude these time periods from the calculation of your benefit. This may help you qualify for benefits or increase the benefit amount you can receive.

To qualify for the Child Rearing Provision:

- you must have either not worked or had low earnings while being the primary caregiver* of a child under the age of seven who was born after December 31, 1958;
- you or your spouse/common-law partner must have received Family Allowance payments or been eligible for the Canada Child Tax Benefit (even if you did not receive the benefit); and
- you must provide proof of birth for each child listed, if a Social Insurance Number is not provided. If a child was born outside of Canada, proof of the child's entry into Canada must be provided as well.

* The primary caregiver is the person who spent the most time caring for the daily needs of the child such as supervision, preparation of meals, school attendance, doctor appointments, etc.

 If you were the primary caregiver of a child and did not receive the Canada Child Tax Benefit only because your family income was too high, you are considered to have been eligible for the Canada Child Tax Benefit.

Family Allowance

The Family Allowance program (commonly referred to as the “baby bonus”) paid a monthly cheque to parents or guardians of dependent children under the age of 18. In most families, payments were issued to the mother. The Family Allowance program was replaced by the Canada Child Tax Benefit in 1993.

Canada Child Tax Benefit (CCTB)

The Canada Child Tax Benefit (CCTB) is a monthly benefit administered by the Canada Revenue Agency. The amount of the CCTB is based on your net family income level, the number of children you have and the ages of your children. You might have been considered eligible to the CCTB even if you did not receive it. For more information about the CCTB, please contact the Canada Revenue Agency.

Waiver of rights to the Child Rearing Provision

If you remained at home to care for a child under age 7 but your spouse received Family Allowances, your spouse can waive their rights in your favour. This means your spouse foregoes their rights to the Child Rearing Provision as it cannot be used for both you and your spouse for the same time periods and children. To waive their rights, your spouse has to complete and sign question 11b of this application.

Please note if your spouse or common-law partner received Canada Child Tax Benefits but you were actually the primary caregiver of the child, you may be eligible for the Child Rearing Provision. To be considered, you will need to provide a letter from the Canada Revenue Agency indicating that you would have been eligible for the Canada Child Tax Benefit while you were the primary caregiver for the child. If this situation applies, please contact the Canada Revenue Agency for more information about obtaining this letter.

Certified photocopies of original documents

It is better to send certified photocopies of documents rather than the originals. If you choose to send original documents, send them by registered mail. We will return the original documents to you.

We can only accept a photocopy of an original document if it is legible and if it is a certified true copy of the original. Our staff at any Service Canada Centre will photocopy your documents and certify them free of charge. If you cannot visit a Service Canada Centre, you can ask one of the following people to certify your photocopy:

- Accountant
- Chief of First Nations Band
- Employee of Human Resources Centres of Canada acting in an official capacity
- Funeral Director
- Justice of the Peace
- Lawyer, Magistrate, Notary
- Manager of Financial Institution
- Medical and Health Practitioners: Chiropractor, Dentist, Doctor, Pharmacist, Psychologist, Nurse Practitioner, Registered Nurse
- Member of Parliament or their staff
- Member of Provincial Legislature or their staff
- Minister of Religion
- Municipal Clerk
- Official of a federal government department or provincial government department, or one of its agencies
- Official of an Embassy, Consulate or High Commission
- Official of a country with which Canada has a reciprocal social security agreement
- Police Officer
- Postmaster
- Professional Engineer
- Social Worker
- Teacher

People who certify photocopies must compare the original document to the photocopy, state their official position or title, sign and print their name, give their telephone number and indicate the date they certified the document.

They must also write the following statement on the photocopy: This photocopy is a true copy of the original document which has not been altered in any way.

If a document has information on both sides, both sides must be photocopied and certified. You cannot certify photocopies of your own documents and you cannot ask a relative to do it for you.

Please write your Social Insurance Number on any photocopies that you send us.

Taxes and your pension

Your CPP retirement pension is taxable. We will not deduct income tax from your monthly payment unless you request it. Once we have approved your pension, we will send you a letter stating the amount of your pension. It will give you information on how to ask for income tax to be deducted. You may also obtain the tax deduction request form on our Internet site at: servicecanada.gc.ca and mail it with your application.

Disability

You may be entitled to receive a CPP disability benefit if you have stopped working because of a disability, are under age 65, and have made sufficient contributions to the CPP. Your disabling condition can be physical or mental. The Canada Pension Plan legislation says that your disability must be “severe and prolonged”.

“Severe” means your condition prevents you from working regularly at any job, and “prolonged” means your condition is long term and may result in your death.

If you feel this applies to you, contact us or visit our Internet site at: servicecanada.gc.ca.

Unable to apply

If, due to a medical condition, you were unable to apply earlier or to ask someone to apply on your behalf, please contact us to obtain a form called "Declaration of Incapacity". If you meet all of the eligibility requirements, filling out and returning this form may allow you to receive your pension with an earlier start date.

Protection of personal information
