Introduction

The Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI) was incorporated in December 1993 as a federally chartered, independent, non-profit organization. The Institute was established to coordinate the development and maintenance of a comprehensive and integrated health information system for Canada and to provide and coordinate the provision of accurate and timely information required for:

- the establishment of sound health policy
- the effective management of the Canadian health system; and
- generating public awareness about factors affecting good health.

The Canadian Organ Replacement Register (CORR) at CIHI is a national information system that records, analyzes and reports the level of activity and outcomes of vital organ transplantation and renal dialysis. CORR members include the Canadian Society of Transplantation and the Canadian Society of Nephrology. The Register provides statistics that track long-term trends for organ transplantation, organ donation and dialysis activity and makes comparative data available that can facilitate better treatment decisions.

In addition, CORR creates a directory of participating dialysis and transplant centres and Organ Procurement Organizations. This directory is divided into Three sections: Section A lists the participating dialysis centres; Section B lists the participating transplant centres; and Section C lists Organ Procurement Organizations. The directory is further subdivided by province and hospital name. Key personnel for each hospital are listed alphabetically.

For additional information on the Canadian Organ Replacement Register, please contact the Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI) at (416) 481-2002.

Introduction

L'Institut canadien d'information sur la santé a été constitué en décembre 1993 à titre d'organisme autonome, sans but lucratif et à charte fédérale. L'Institut a été créé pour coordonner le développement et l'entretien d'un système d'information sur la santé intégré et complet au Canada et pour fournir en temps opportun l'information appropriée et nécessaire en vue :

- d'introduire des politiques de santé avisées;
- de gérer avec efficacité le système de santé canadien; et
- de sensibiliser le public aux facteurs qui influent sur la santé.

Le Registre canadien des insuffisances et des transplantations d'organes (RCITO) de l'ICIS est un système d'information national qui enregistre, analyse et produit des rapports sur le degré d'activité et les résultats des transplantations d'organes vitaux et de dialyse rénale. Les membres du RCITO incluent la Société canadienne de transplantation et la Société canadienne de néphrologie. Le Registre fournit des statistiques qui font ressortir les tendances à long terme des transplantations d'organes, des dons d'organes et des activités de dialyse et des données comparatives permettant de prendre de meilleures décisions au sujet des traitements.

De plus, le RCITO produit un répertoire des centres de dialyse et de transplantation et des organismes chargés de l'acheminement des organes. Le répertoire est divisé en deux sections : la section A énumère les centres de dialyse participants; la section B énumère les centres de transplantation participants; et la section C énumère les organismes chargés de l'acheminement des organes. Le répertoire a également été subdivisé selon la province et le nom de l'hôpital. Les employés clés de chacun des hôpitaux sont énumérés par ordre alphabétique.

Pour de plus amples renseignements sur le Registre canadien des insuffisances et des transplantations d'organes, veuillez communiquer avec l'Institut canadien d'information sur la santé au (416) 481-2002.
