Key Elements of Policy-Making

Question: How influential is evidence in shaping public policy?

Some Key Policy Initiatives to Enhance the Well-Being of Children Canada, 1990-2001

1991

- Ratification of the Convention of the Rights of the Child

1992-2001

Community-Based Initiatives:

- Community Action Program for Children: funds community groups to establish and deliver services that address the needs of at-risk children age 0 to 6 years.
(<http://www.hc-sc.gc.ca/hppb/childhood-youth/cbp/capc/index.html>)
- Aboriginal Head Start: an early intervention program for First Nations, Inuit and Métis preschool children and their families living in urban centres, northern communities and on First Nations reserves. Projects are run by locally managed Aboriginal organizations that directly involve parents.
(<http://www.hc-sc.gc.ca/hppb/childhood-youth/acy/ahs.htm>)
- The Canada Prenatal Nutrition Program: a comprehensive community-based program that supports pregnant women facing conditions that threaten their health and the development of their babies.
(<http://www.hc-sc.gc.ca/hppb/childhood-youth/cbp/cnp/index.html>)
- Fetal Alcohol Syndrome/Fetal Alcohol Effects (FAS/FAE): aims at preventing FAS/FAE by increasing awareness and supporting community action.
(<http://www.hc-sc.gc.ca/hppb/childhood-youth/cyfh/fas/whatisfas.html>)

1998

- National Child Benefit: a collaborative tax benefit policy to prevent and reduce child poverty, ensure that families will always be better off as a result of working and reducing overlap by harmonizing program objectives and benefits. (<http://www.socialunion.gc.ca/>)

1999

- Social Union Framework Agreement: a collaborative framework for social policy in Canada.
(<http://www.socialunion.gc.ca/>)
- National Children's Agenda (NCA): a cooperative effort by all governments to ensure that all children in Canada have the best opportunity to develop their potential. The NCA provides a shared vision and four goals for all children: good health, safety and security, success at learning, social engagement and responsibility. (<http://www.socialunion.gc.ca/>)

2000

- Health Accord and Early Childhood Development Initiative (ECD): as part of the collaborative agreement to ensure health and health system renewal, all governments have agreed to work together to invest in early child development (age 0 to 6) in four priority areas: healthy pregnancy; birth and infancy; improved parenting and family supports; strengthening community support, and learning and care. Includes a $2.2 billion investment in ECD from the federal government over the next five years. (<http://www.pco-bcp.gc.ca/aia/>)

- The federal government has also enhanced maternity, parental and adoption benefits.

National Research Initiatives to Support Policy Development

Surveys

- National Longitudinal Study on Children and Youth (1994): a longitudinal survey that tracks the health and well-being of a large number of Canadian children.
(<http://www.hrdc-drhc.gc.ca/arb/nlscy-elnej/survey-e.shtml>)
- Health Behaviours in School-Aged Children (WHO cross-national collaborative study) –
