REPORT NO. 66
HISTORICAL SECTION (G.S.)
ARMY HEADQUARTERS

12 Jan 54

1. This is an account of the final training of First Cdn Army for its initial follow-up role in North-West Europe. It covers the period December 1943 – May 1944.

2. In October 1943, 5 Cdn Armd Div had followed 1 Cdn Inf Div to the Mediterranean, and within two months 3 Cdn Inf Div* was placed under 1 (Brit) Corps for operational direction and training in connection with the forthcoming assault on Normandy. This left only two overseas divisions fully under Canadian command – 2 Cdn Inf Div and 4 Cdn Armd Div, both of 2 Cdn Corps.

3. Separate sections of this Report deal with the training of 4 Cdn Armd Div, certain special training of R.C.E. units of First Cdn Army, and a series of amphibious exercises by 2 Cdn Inf Div. Attached as Appendix “A” is a table showing major exercises carried out by formations of First Cdn Army during the period under review. (After May 1944 activities consisted mainly of preparations – other than training – for future operations and of routine, administrative matters (C.M.H.Q. file 4/Progress/11/2: G.O.C. –in-C. First Cdn Army to C. of S., C.M.H.Q. (S.D. & T.), 23 May 44).) References to training in the War Diaries of one armoured regiment of 4 Cdn Armd Div (21 Cdn Inf Div (S. Sask R.) follow as Appendices “B” and “C”.

* The training of this and 2 Cnd Armd Bde is covered in A.H.Q Historical Report No. 54.

TRAINING OF 4 CDN ARMD DIV, DECEMBER 1943 – MAY 1944

4. First Cdn Army Training Directive No. 18, ** 15 Dec 43, significantly began:

...it must be realized by all unit comds that this will be their last opportunity to make the men of their units fighting fit, and fit to fight...

Individual training was to receive top priority. Collective training was to proceed up to platoon level in January 1944 and to company and battalion levels in February and March, except in the case of 4 Cdn Armd Div, which would “continue with bde and div trg”. Both before and after the turn of the year, however, in 4 Cdn Armd Div – as well as in First Cdn Army as a whole – the emphasis was on individual training, notably range work, specialist training under unit arrangements, and anti-gas training. Preparations for ceremonial parades, occasioned by a series of visits and inspections, accounted for additional training hours. Sports and recreation also received considerable attention. (W.D., G.S., H.Q. 4 Cdn Armd Div, December 1943 – February 1944: Appendices, “Highlights of Training”. See also Appx “B” to this Report, W.D., 21 Cdn Armd Regt, December 1943 – May 1944 (Extracts).)

5. In the latter part of January and early in February, infantry units of 4 Cdn Div practised street fighting in Eastbourne. This was followed immediately by “STAMMER”, a three-day field firing exercise in which 10 Cdn Inf Bde and the divisional artillery took part. In mid-February the units of 10 Cdn Inf Bde proceeded to Inveraray , Scotland, for a week's training in following up an amphibious assault. *(4 Cdn Armd Div Highlights of Training" for weeks ending 30 Jan – 20 Feb 44. W.Ds., Units of 10 Cdn Inf Bde, 25 Jan – 7 Feb and 14-22 Feb 44) Towards the end of April, squadrons of 4 Cdn Armd Div's three armoured regiments were attached to 2 Cdn Inf Div for infantry cum tank training. During both April and May the remaining armour and 4 Cdn Armd Div's own infantry underwent considerable joint training, and the artillery and infantry practised setting up anti-tank screen (W.D., G.S., H.Q. 2 Cdn Corps, April and May 1944: Appendices, "Weekly Progress Reports to Canada" for weeks ending 30 Apr 21 May)

ENGINEER TRAINING FOR OPERATION "AXEHEAD"

6. At the beginning of March 1944, H.Q. 21 A. Gp had issued to first Cdn Army a directive stating:

...The role of First Canadian Army will be to land [in Normandy] after Second British Army...

After taking over the left-hand sector of the bridgehead it is probable that First Canadian Army will be required to advance Eastwards and capture the ports of WHITSTABLE AND CLARENCE...

* Certain units of 2 Cdn Inf Div had undergone similar training there in December and January.

The operation for seizing these ports will be called 'AXEHEAD'...

The crossing of the River DILTON, River MALTON, River BEXLEY and of the River DURRUS below CLARENCE are highly specialized trained Engineers from G.H.Q. Troops will be available; Engineer units under your command, however, should undergo special training as early as possible....

((Hist) 212Cl.013 (D4), 21 A. Gp Directives to First Cdn Army, March 1944: "NEPTUNE" Directive, 1 Mar, paras 2,3,4 (b) and 7)

The ports of "WHITSTABLE" and "CLARENCE" were Le Havre and Rouen, respectively. The River "DURRUS" was the Seine; "DILTON" "MALTON" and "BEXLEY" were the Dives, the Torques and the Risle. ((Hist) 215Cl.98 (D 328), Security – Code Words and Pass Words: "NEPTUNE" – Place-Name Code-Words" (H.Q. 21 A. Gp[, 17 Feb 44))

7. Engineer planning in connection with Operation "AXEHEAD" apparently began on the same day as the 21 A. Gp directive was issued. Units of Army Troops R.C.E. – then being reorganized into 1 and 2 Cdn A. Tps Engrs – received early warning of a move to the area of Goole, Yorks, for special training (W.D.,C.E. First Cdn Army, 1, 2 and 4 Mar 44). The immediate object of such training was to prepare for an exercise in assaulting across a tidal estuary, to begin late in April, with 1 Cdn A. Tps Engineers Training Directive No. 6"

17 Mar 44. W.D., G.S.H.Q. First Cdn Army, April 1944: Appx No. 10, Directive to 2 Cdn Corps, 11 Apr 44, "Exercise – Assault crossing of a tidal estuary"). This exercise was to be known as "KATE" (Krossing A Tidal Estuary).

8. Not represented on Exercise "KATE" – except, in certain cases, by small elements – were the R.C.E. of 2 Cdn Inf Div, 4 Cdn Armd Div and Corps Troops. These units, beginning with 2 Inf Div R.C.E. in mid-April, practised tidal bridging on the River Medway, in Kent, though tidal conditions there differed from those anticipated in Operation "AXEHEAD" (W.D., C.E. 2 Cdn Corps, April, May 1944: Appx No. 1, Weekly Progress Reports, 14 Apr – 20 May 44. W.D., C.E. First Cdn Army, 30 May 44).

9. On 28/29 Mar, C.Es., First Cdn Army and 2 Cdn Corps (Brigadiers A.T. MacLean and G. Walsh, respectively), C.R.E. 1 Cdn A. Tps Engrs (Lt-Col N.I. Fraser;) and certain other R.C.E. officers watched 46 (H0 Inf Bde and R.E. units on "OYSTER III", an exercise similar to the forthcoming "KATE". This took place on the River Ouse, in Yorkshire, whereas the site subsequently chosen for Exercise "KATE" was on the Trent, in the area of Scunthorpe, Lincs. (W.Ds., C.E. First Cdn Army and C.E. 2 Cdn Corps, 28 Mar 44. (Hist) 212C1 (D64), Exercise "OYSTER III": Notes on Exercise (writer not identified). W.D., H.Q. 1 Cdn A. Tps Engrs, 28 Mar, 26 Apr 44)

10. By the end of March 1 A. Tps Engrs, having settled down in the Goole area, were taking preliminary instruction in watermanship. During the first three weeks of April, under Lt-Col Fraser's direction, field companies of both 1 and 2 Cdn A. Tps Engrs practised assault rafting and bridging and familiarized themselves with “storm boats”. (W.D., 1 Cdn A. Tps Engrs, March 1944: Appx VIII, “Weekly Progress Reports”. Ibid, April: Appx VII) The basic item of special equipment to be used on “KATE”, the storm boat was a powerdriven plywood vessel 20 feet long, with capacity for 12 armed passengers or 3000 pounds of freight ((Hist) 232C2 (D79), Exercise “KATE”: “Joint Report by Comd 2 Inf Div and CE 2 Cdn Corps”, 24 May 44). Appx “R”, “The Ferry Service”, para 2).

11. After Exercise “KATE” – a brief account of which is given below – 1 and 2 Cdn A. Tps Engrs followed 2 Cdn Corps R.C.E. in tidal bridging on the Medway (C.E. 2 Cdn Corps “Weekly Progress Report”, 20 May 44, W.Ds., H.Q. 1 and 2 Cdn A. Tps Engrs, 22 and 19 May 44).

2 CDN INF DIV EXERCISE ”KATE”, 28 APR – 19 MAY 44

12. The 21 A. Gp directive concerning Operation “AXEHEAD” (see para PARA 6, above) was reflected in First Cdn Army Training Directive No. 20**, 15 Apr 44, which stated:

- a. [Brigadier C.C. Mann, C. of S.] am directed to instruct that the following subjects should be studied through the chain of comd as far as the time remaining at disposal permits. No interference with the completion of present exercises is contemplated by this instr.

* See W.D. G.S., H.Q. First Cdn Army, April 1944: Appx No. 13. Training Directive No. 19 is attached as Appx “K” to the March Diary.

b. SUBJECTS:-

- (1) a “break-out” battle followed by a fighting adv to a topographical objective some 40 miles distant.

Emphasis should be given to the necessity of seizing and maintaining the initiative.

- (2) Assault crossings of rivers, small and large, and the engr problems involved.
- (3) The emp of airborne fmns and amphibious (AFVs and other types).
- (4) The rapid org of forces, and of a locality to withstand a determined enemy counter-offensive launched in str, and the resumption of your own offensive.

At about the same time, it may be recalled, H.Q. First Cdn Army issued to 2 Cdn Corps the directive for Exercise “KATE”.

13. On 16 Apr H.Q. 2 Cdn Inf Div prescribed preliminary training in the handling of storm boats by companies of 4 and 5 Cdn Inf Bdes; this was to take place on the Medway, where (as we have seen) 2 Cdn Inf Div R.C.E. were already practising tidal bridging (W.D., G.S., 2 Cdn Inf Div, April 1944: Appx No. 8, Training Instruction No. 22, “Storm Boat Trg”). Accordingly, between 17 and 22 Apr, infantry companies of the two brigades carried out a programme of “adapting the storm boat to the use of a rifle coy in the assault crossing of a tidal estuary” ((Hist) 145.2R1 5033 (D1), R.H.C. Report on Storm Boat Training by Maj F.P. Griffin, para 1. W.D., R.H.C., 19, 22 Apr 44).

14. Exercise “KATE”, which began on the River Trent on 28 Apr, was not a single, divisional exercise, but rather a series of brigade and battalion exercises. Troops taking part included, besides those R.C.E. units already mentioned, R. Regt C., R.H.L.I. Essex Scot, R.H.C. and Calg Highrs, and the following supporting arms and services:

Elements of 2 a Tk Regt R.C.A.

Elements of Tor Scot R. (M.G.)

5 Inf Bde Coy R.C.A.S.C.

45 Gen Tpt Coy R.C.A.S.C. (Army Troop[s])

Three platoons of 85 Br Coy R.C.A.S.C.

(Army Troops)

(“Joint Report by Comd 2 Cdn Inf Div and CE 2 Cdn Corps”: Appx “A”, “List of Tps Taking Part”. W.D., H.Q. 4 Cdn Inf Bde, 16 May). Air Support in the form of smoke, was provided by Typhoons of 266 Sqn R.A.F. (“Joint Report para 14 and Appx “0”, “Smoke”).

15. Problems to receive special attention by formation headquarters included tactical and technical organization, the allotment of boats, traffic control, and intercommunication. Among the special problems of the infantry were manhandling weapons and equipment, boarding 6-pounder guns on storm boats, and “wallowing in mud with eqpt” ((Hist) 212C1 (D61), Exercise “KATE”: 2 Cdn Inf Div Preliminary Instructions, 17 Apr 44: Appx “C”, “Problems for Consideration and Trg”). With a view to working out a common drill for all such endeavours, various river crossing techniques were to be tried (ibid: Notes on G.O.C. 2 Cdn Inf Div Conferences, 25 and 26 Apr 44).

16. Exercise “KATE I” began at mid-morning on 28 Apr, with Calg Highrs (of 5 Cdn Inf Bde) assaulting from the east bank of the Trent, opposite the village of Amcotts, and R.H.C. Following up. The exercise ended early next afternoon. On 1 May R.H.C. carried out “KATE II” in the same area. (W.D., H.Q. 5 Cdn Inf Bde, 28 Apr, 1 May 44) “KATE III” took place on the morning of 3 May, Essex Scot crossing from the area of Burton-upon-Strather (W.D., Essex Scot, May 1944: Appx No. 5, “Comd Diary Exercise KATE”, Serial No. 35). Exercise “KATE IV” began the following morning, with R. Regt C. crossing at 0420 hours and Essex Scot two hours later, and ended at noon on 5 May (ibid, Serial No. 39. W.D., Regt C., 4 May 44).

17. Two days after “KATE IV”, H.Q. 2 Cdn Inf Div returned to its regular location near Dover. By 12 May the G.O.C. (Maj-Gen C. Foulkes) and Brigadier Walsh has completed an interim report on the training. (W.D., G.S., H.Q. 2 Cdn Inf Div, 7, 12 May 44) In the meantime, on 6 May, R.H.L.I. and R. de Mais had come to the Scunthorpe area to join their respective brigades (4 and 5 Cdn Inf Bdes). The newly arrived units and the majority of those which has taken part in the various exercises on the Trent then became “KATE Force”, under Comd 4 Cdn Inf Bde (Brigadier Sherwood Lett). (W.D., H.Q. 4 Cdn Inf Bde 6 May and Appx I, “KATE” File: sub-Appx, “KATE Force Order of Battle and Location State” (date 7 May inserted in pencil). W.D., H.Q. 5 Cdn Inf Bde, 6 May 44).

18. Between 7 and 19 further river crossing exercises were carried out at battalion level, including “KATE V” by R.H.L.I. On 20 and 21 May 4 and 5 Cdn Inf Bdes rejoined 2 Inf Div in the Dover-Folkstone area. (W.Ds., H.Q. 4 and 5 Cdn Inf Bdes, 7-21 May, and R.H.L.I., 16 May44)

19. Maj-Gen Foulkes and Brigadier Walsh recommended, in their “Joint Report”, that tidal river crossing operations be mounted on a front of two brigades, each with two battalions up. Each battalion should be allotted 40 storm boats and 12 spare engines for same. Four trackways should be constructed on each battalion’s front immediately following the assault wave. The construction of these trackways and the ferrying of jeeps and 6-pounders should be the responsibility of engineers under command of the assaulting brigades. Infantry and engineers should receive at least nine days’ combined training, using all the necessary equipment. Good progress had been made in establishing a common doctrine especially in matters of terminology, assault scales and standard loads for storm boats; was still evolving. (Joint Report” para 22)

OPERATION “AXEHEAD” CANCELLED

20. Before the end of May C.E. Branch,H.Q. First Cdn Army, had decided that:

[Engineer intelligence] work produced for 2 Cdn Corps for AXEHEAD is much in excess to what we could produce for a normal op. We cannot produce cross secs of river asked for without prejudice to work on rivers leading up to the AXEHEAD site... no work on AXEHEAD AFTER D Day until all work on areas traversed before AXEHEAD is completed....

W.D., C.E. First Cdn Army,

27 May 44)

By the beginning of June, engineer planning for Operation “AXEHEAD” at Corps and Army levels appeared complete; nevertheless both engineer intelligence work and general engineer planning in that connection continued well into the month (ibid, 1-6, 12-15, 20 Jun 44).

21. By 7 Aug the 21 A. Gp plan for the Seine crossing had changed, the proposed site of the operation being moved upstream. That the enemy would, or could, strongly resist the crossing was so doubtful that within three days the occasion for mounting “AXEHEAD” had become the least of three possibilities. The other two were a “hasty scramble – almost unopposed” and a “broad front assault by four corps – moderate resistance”. (Ibid, 7 Aug 44 and Appx No. 10, Notes on C.E. 21 A. Gp conference re Seine crossing, 10 Aug 44). As it happened, the latter possibility was the more nearly realized. Finally, on 21 Aug 44, C. of S. First Cdn Army informed G.O.C. 2 Cdn Corps:

...The AXEHEAD operation ... is definitely off ....

((Hist) 215C1.019 (D3), Photostats of G.O.C.-in-C. First Cdn Army Files : First Cdn Directive to G.O.C. 2 Cdn Corps, 21 Aug 44, para 3 (a)).
