

Moving Forward

BC Rail Investment Partnership

COMMUNITY BENEFITS

LILLOOET

Communities and customers of BC Rail told the provincial government that a new investment partnership was needed to secure the long-term future of this vital transportation network.

The BC Rail Investment Partnership responds to their concerns by delivering significant benefits to communities like Lillooet. CN's billion-dollar investment in British Columbia will inject needed money into capital improvements, and free taxpayers from BC Rail's $500 million debt. A focus on growing the business, lower freight rates, faster, more reliable service and improved infrastructure will be strong incentives for B.C.'s resource industries to move more of their products on rail. This will in turn create new jobs, both within the railway and within Heartlands communities.

New passenger/tourism services

CN will issue a request for proposals (RFP) for passenger-tourist train service providers. CN will provide access to the rail line on reasonable commercial terms to accommodate passenger services. New passenger-tourist train services are estimated to create hundreds of new jobs in B.C.'s tourism and hospitality industry.

Possible routes could include BC Rail's line between North Vancouver and Prince George— through Lillooet—and on all or portions of CN's network between Prince Rupert, Prince George and Jasper.

D'Arcy-Lillooet shuttle service continues

CN has committed to continuing the D'Arcy-Lillooet shuttle service currently operated by BC Rail.

New tax revenues will help fund local services

The BC Rail Investment Partnership will generate new local government revenues that will help Lillooet reduce the tax burden on residents and businesses and fund municipal services. Because CN will be fully taxable at the municipal level, Lillooet could receive an estimated $68,000 in revenues, based on current assessment levels—more than five times the revenues it received from BC Rail in 2003.

In addition, Lillooet will benefit as a result of significant new tax revenues payable by CN each year to the Squamish-Lillooet Regional District. The regional district could receive an estimated $497,000 in municipal tax revenues from CN—a nine-fold increase over what BC Rail paid in 2003.

$135 million Northern Development Initiative

Proceeds from the partnership will be used to establish a $135 million Northern Development Initiative to support investments in forestry, pine beetle recovery, transportation, tourism, mining, Olympic opportunities, small business and sustainable economic development.

A sum of $25 million will go toward an operating endowment, with the interest used to support the operations of the Northern Development Initiative. A further $60 million will be divided equally among four regions, including $15 million dedicated for Cariboo-Chilcotin/Lillooet region. The remaining $50 million will go to a general trust to support cross-regional investments, economic development and job creation.

The initiative will be administered by a board, to be established by future legislation, and assisted by a regional advisory committee for each of the four regions to provide input to spending priorities. The province will make the initial appointments to the board. It will include people with the range of skills required, along with representatives selected by the regional advisory committees. The regional advisory committees will include community representatives that may include mayors and MLAs.

New benefits for First Nations

CN has extensive experience in working with First Nations and they support the BC treaty process. They will honour BC Rail's existing agreements and protocols with First Nations.

In addition, a $15 million First Nations Trust will be established to support economic development, educational advancement and cultural renewal for the 25 First Nations along the BC Rail network. This may include funding to: build capacity and provide seed-capital for aboriginal enterprises and joint partnerships; protect and promote First Nations' languages; and support initiatives for aboriginal youth apprenticeship training.

The trust will be administered by a board to be established by future legislation.

Long-term protection of the rail network

CN's substantial investment in the BC Rail system underlines its commitment to protect the long-term integrity of BC Rail's line.

Lower rates and costs

Shippers will receive an average rate reduction of seven per cent for interline rail shipments. Lower rates will help make B.C. forest products more competitively priced and that will help companies protect and create jobs. Virtually all of BC Rail's current customers will enjoy the benefits of lower freight rates with CN, and there will be regulatory protection for rates—for the first time ever—under the Canada Transportation Act.

Competitive transportation choices for shippers

CN will establish an Open Gateway Rate and Service Commitment to ensure competitive access to other interline carriers at Vancouver. Shippers will have the choice to use CN's improved service to reach their markets or use competing alternatives at Vancouver. These choices include CN's single-line services to key markets, or continued competitive access to other railroads at Vancouver at lower average rates than currently charged by BC Rail. In addition, the Open Gateway rates are backed up by a service commitment that will ensure shippers using BC Rail to reach competing railways in Vancouver receive the same service as shippers using CN.

Investment in new rail cars

Shippers have indicated that BC Rail was unable to provide sufficient rail cars to meet their needs. This concern will be answered by a contractual commitment by CN to purchase 600 centre beam cars and to upgrade 1,500 cars to ensure customers have access to rail cars when and where they need them.

Fair treatment for BC Rail employees

CN has prepared a comprehensive plan to minimize and mitigate job impacts. BC Rail employees have worked hard to build the company and all will be treated fairly, respectfully and generously. Employment impacts will be minimized considerably through early retirement, attrition, relocation, and severance payments where no alternative exists. Throughout the entire BC Rail network of 1,380 employees, there will be only 180 involuntary job reductions over the next three years.

Local suppliers protected

CN will be honouring all current BC Rail contracts, including those with local suppliers in Lillooet.
