(So help me God.)

2000, c.C-42.1, s.4.

Duties and powers of judges

5(1) The chief justice and the other judges are also, by virtue of their office, judges of the Court of Queen's Bench and:

(2) Each judge has all the jurisdiction, both civil and criminal, possessed by the judges of any court in Saskatchewan pursuant to any Act or any Act of the Parliament of Canada.

(3) Nothing in this Act requires judges to preside over trials of criminal and civil cases, but they may, with the consent of the chief justice, preside over criminal and civil trials when requested to do so by the Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench.

2000, c.C-42.1, s.5.

Duties and powers of chief justice

6 The chief justice:

(a) is the presiding judge and administrative head of the court; and

2000, c.C-42.1, s.7.

Interlocutory appeals

8(1) Subject to subsection (2), no appeal lies to the court from an interlocutory decision of the Court of Queen’s Bench unless leave to appeal is granted by a judge or the court.

(2) Subject to this section, a notice of appeal must be served within 30 days after the date of the decision being appealed from.

(3) Where leave to appeal is necessary, an application for leave must be made within 15 days after the date of the decision for which leave to appeal is being sought or within any time ordered by the court or a judge.

(4) Where a decision is made during or after a trial and the decision is only incidental to the trial, a notice of appeal from the incidental decision must be served not later than 30 days after the date of the judgment at trial, and a party appealing from the trial judgment may include in the notice of appeal of the trial judgment an appeal from the incidental decision.

(5) Where a decision is made during or after the hearing of an application in chambers and the decision is only incidental to the application and does not dispose of the matter in issue, a notice of appeal from the incidental decision must be served not later than 15 days after the date of the judgment on the matter in issue in the application, and a party appealing from the judgment may include in the notice of appeal of the judgment an appeal from the incidental decision.

(6) On the application of any party, a judge or the court may extend an appeal period mentioned in this section where, in the opinion of the judge or court, it is just and equitable to do so.

(7) Where a provision of this section conflicts with a provision of an enactment governing an appeal, the provision of the enactment prevails.

- (a) within the same time that is allowed in cases of trial or assessment of damages by a jury; and
