EXPORT DIRECTORY

Message from the Minister

I am pleased to present the Newfoundland and Labrador Export Directory (2006). Our province has a long history of exporting goods and services. We have been exporting to Europe for over 500 years and today we export everything from guitars to navigation systems around the world. This directory provides contact information on companies in Newfoundland and Labrador that export goods and services.

Our exports fall into two broad categories: natural resources, particularly related to oil and gas, mining, lumber and the fishery, and manufactured goods and services.

Our province is rich in base metals such as nickel and iron, in fact we produce over half of Canada's iron ore, and we mine precious metals such as gold. We also have large deposits of dimension stone in a dazzling array of stones from plum-colored slate to shimmering blue-green Labradorite.

Because of our climate, our lumber is slow-growing and particularly durable. We have exported pre-fabricated houses to Chile and have undertaken a pilot project to build houses in Iceland.

We are a major exporter of fish, particularly shrimp and crab, and are making technological advances in farmed fish, particularly in transgenic salmon, and we are developing superior strains of cod.

Our manufacturing sector produces everything from work boots to devices that can detect ice and contaminants on aircraft wings.

Newfoundland and Labrador is a province of pioneer developers who have created a string of inventions, and we are building upon our long and proud history of working with the sea. We have companies that produce electronic monitoring devices that improve the catch rate of trawls, over-the-horizon radars, and data recorders for ocean going ships.

Our growing biotechnology industry is producing marine-based solutions for the administration of drugs to patients in China.

Newfoundland and Labrador engineers provide services world wide. We have installed water systems in Africa, built airports and restored electrical distribution systems in the Caribbean, and our petroleum engineers are known the world over.

As Minister of Innovation, Trade and Rural Development, I invite you to examine this directory and familiarize yourself with the wide range of products and services that Newfoundland and Labrador has to offer. We are open to the world and I invite you to join us.

Honourable Trevor Taylor
Minister of Innovation, Trade and Rural Development
