

Public Works and Government Services Canada approved the sale of the Pleasantville site in St. John's Newfoundland in early 2006.

Originally developed by the United States military in 1942, the Pleasantville property comprises approximately 35 hectares (86 acres) of developable land and a total of 33 buildings. With the closure of the US base in 1960, ownership of the land and buildings was transferred jointly to the governments of Canada and Newfoundland.

It is bounded by a golf course to the north, Quidi Vidi Lake to the south, a residential neighbourhood to the west and the Virginia River and provincial lands to the east.
