

The science of art

Serge Tousignant – Clip 5

You see, art is a little – even a lot – like science, in that discoveries are always based on premises, on prior research. It's very rare that someone makes a discovery which has no antecedent, which isn't based on previous leads. In art, it's the same thing.

