

New Technologies

Jin-Me Yoon – Clip 13

Well I think that all technologies are inherently new when they emerge. Of course this is an era of acceleration. I think it's like everything else. I just use whatever I need. And I love the fact that I teach, because I can learn from my students. And they're often much more technologically savvy than I am. And the way they employ media seems quite different than the way I use, let's say video. I'm interested in new media work. Some of it is very exciting and offers new possibilities for thinking about our relationships to technology. Some of it seems not that exciting, and more about a kind of technical, or technological, virtuosity, which I'm not that interested in. So it just depends, it's like anything else....

