The importance of having a measuring system

“The ultimate measuring system is of course our own being expressed through its exterior and interior attributes, that is, body and mind. To make a construction of art is to inevitably involve this two-sided gauge, for we have nothing else with which to make the thing of art and can use nothing else with which to experience it. I have chosen to accept some conscious responsibility for all of this, but this is not to say that the unconscious does not, and decisively, play its role here too.”
