

Thomas Demand - Clip 5

I work with paper

I use paper mainly because everybody knows it, everybody has an experience about it and everybody has done something with it. I mean in school people have done things with making models, like geometrical models. You just use it on everyday basis like newspapers, paper plates. So many things are made out of paper, cardboard. You rip up things in cardboard, and somehow I like the fact that we share before anyone has seen anything we share the experience about the material already which is very different from computer for instance because computer always had this rhetoric of technology which is inaccessible for most of the viewers and I didn't want to have that. I wanted to make it very easy to enter.
