

Collaboration is the future

Michael Morris – Clip 4

Collaboration has become increasingly important. As I've gotten older I think the collaborative practice is very, very important. I think it is in many ways ...art is going to become more and more interactive and more and more collaborative. I know in my life that's been the case. I can see that as work evolves, that's the direction that I think art is going in.

