

Pierre Boogeaerts - Clip 5

The gaze

The camera helped me to ask myself questions about how my own eye and my own brain worked, and above all, to question how the society in which I lived viewed the world. That, I think, is the work of every artist, the work of every man and woman. One need not be an artist to ask those questions.

