

Being a woman artist

Rita Letendre – Clip 7

Well I think I could have had more publicité....I could have made more if I had been a man because it's a fact the world is man oriented but so I mean.....I'm not a fist fighter but I'm a fighter. I don't accept no's easily so...When I was in Los Angeles they called me a young Los Angelinos painter, when I was in Europe I was a young American artist but if I had stuck around more in those place and fight more but I didn't like very much to spend so much energy in trying to make myself known -----
-----my life is alone in my studio, -----
-----music and painting and thinking...just...I like that aloneness, that solitude.
