| 2. | Government Facility - Refers to all rustodial facilities run by the government agency responsible for corrections in your jurisdiction. These facilities are distinguishable from private correctional facilities in that they are operated by government employees rather than employees from the private sectors. All facilities that are considered administratively distinct should be counted separately. For example, if a facility has affiliates or satellites which are administered centrally only the base facility should be counted. Many terms are used by the jurisdictions when referring to custodial facilities. Examples are: jails correctional institutions, community residential centres, community correctional centres, detention centres, reformatories, training centres, remand centres, and camps. The meaning of these terms can vary among jurisdictions. |

| Indicate (X) where applicable. |
| Inmates temporarily released from custody (i.e. temporary absence, day parole) Probation Conditional sentence Provincial parole Federal offenders released on parole or statutory release |
| Other, specify - |
| |
| CORE DEFINITION(S): |
| 1. Probation/Parole Office - See Question 24. |
| 2. Population Supervised |
| Inmates temporarily released from custody - Refers to those inmates who have been temporarily released from custody for various reasons, on day parole or a temporary absence. |
| Probation - Refers to a type of court disposition imposed on an individual which is served in the community and under conditions of supervision. A probation order may be given in conjunction with a suspended sentence, a conditional discharge, a fine, or in conjunction with a jail sentence. |
| Parole - A form of conditional release from custody whereby an inmate who is considered eligible may be released, at a time considered appropriate by a parole board, to serve the balance of a sentence under supervision in the community subject to stated conditions. |
| Statutory Release - Statutory release allows most federally sentenced offenders who have not been granted parole to serve the final third of their sentences in the community under supervision and under conditions of release like those imposed on offenders released on full parole. |
| Conditional sentence - Refers to a new type of community-based alternative to imprisonment as stated in the Sentencing reform Bill (C-41). If certain legal criteria are fulfilled, a judge may sentence to a conditional term of imprisonment an offender who would otherwise have been sent to prison. According to the terms of the conditional sentence, the offender will serve the term of imprisonment in the community provided that he/she abides by conditions imposed by the court as part of the conditional sentence order. If the offender violates these conditions, he may be sent to prison to serve the balance of that sentence. |
