

FUNDING TO MEDIA ARTS PROGRAMS, 1998-99

- In 1998-99, the Canada Council for the Arts provided grants worth $9.2 million to media arts in Canada.
- Media arts funding is evenly distributed between artists and organizations, with the Council awarding $4.2 million in grants to individual media artists and $5 million to media arts organizations (see Table 1a). Emerging media artists received $726,000 for first productions and $95,000 was awarded in travel grants. A total of 28 Aboriginal artists received $362,700 to pursue projects, while production and creative development grants to 135 film, video, new media and audio artists totaled almost $3 million dollars.
- Organizational funding assists a wide variety of media arts organizations with their operating, programming, dissemination, project and equipment purchase needs. In 1998-99, increased funding to media arts organizations was directed towards media arts festivals, with $500,000 distributed to 26 Canadian media arts festivals. Operational and equipment purchase assistance to 38 film production cooperatives and electronic media arts organizations totaled $2 million. Project assistance and dissemination project grants combined provided almost $900,000 in funding to 80 diverse organizations, while annual assistance programs to production and distribution organizations, as well as cinematheques accounted for $1.5 million in funds.
- In terms of Canada Council funding allocations, media arts received the least amount of funding of all disciplines. The media arts budget of $10.1 million ($9,230,800 for media arts and $841,000 for inter-arts combined) comprised 11% of Council funding for 1998-99 (see Table 1b).
- Funding to media arts organizations and artists is widely dispersed across the country in 53 different cities and communities (see Table 2). However, a significant percentage of funding is concentrated in two Canadian centres featuring prominent and internationally recognized media arts communities. Toronto received $2.1 million in Canada Council media arts funding, while Montréal media artists and organizations also received $2 million. Vancouver continues to emerge as a dynamic centre of media arts activity, receiving $1.3 million from the Canada Council in 1998-99.

SOME FACTS ABOUT FILM AND VIDEO IN CANADA

- Data taken from Statistics Canada's Film and Video Distribution and Wholesaling Survey notes that exports of Canadian film and video productions to foreign markets surpassed the $100-million mark for the first time in 1997-98.<sup>1</sup> This increase in exports, combined with strong sales of foreign film and video productions in Canada, resulted in overall record revenues of $1.8 billion for the film and video industry as a whole, up 13% from 1994-95.
- Despite distributors' foreign sales of Canadian film and video productions reaching a record $101.2 million, in the Canadian theatrical market (commercial movie theatres and drive-ins) foreign movies accounted for 98% of $276.7 million in distributors' revenue. Canadian movies account for only 2% of distributors' total revenue.
- Limited screen time for Canadian films compared to American and international releases has resulted this low share of distributors' revenue. This trend is reproduced in the home-video market, with foreign productions accounting for 99% of the $812.2 million in domestic wholesale sales in 1997-98. In comparison, the market for Canadian pre-recorded videos was worth only $7.3 million.

<sup>1</sup> Data on Canadian film and video distribution was taken from the 1997-98 Film and Video Distribution and Wholesaling Survey conducted by Statistics Canada. The survey sample consisted of 178 film and video distributing and wholesale companies in Canada, primarily engaged in distributing film and video productions to motion picture theatres, television stations and commercial exhibitors.
