

The Canadian Cultural Observatory

is a national information service that supports cultural development in Canada.

Culturescope.ca

is the Observatory's Web site. It's an award-winning, collaborative and bilingual on-line interactive hub, developed in partnership with the not-for-profit, private and public sectors.

Visit Culturescope.ca!

→ The Latest News

Daily updates of developments in arts, culture and heritage.

→ Culturescope Groups

Create your on-line group to post content and participate in discussions while working on projects in a private workspace.

→ Research Themes

A collection of topic-specific resources including studies and reports, journals, projects and programs, guides and case studies, and statistics.

→ Events Calendar

Upcoming events are posted as they are announced.

→ Ask a Librarian

Cultural policy research support from Library and Archives Canada.

→ E-Bulletin Directory

A comprehensive and regularly updated directory of on-line bulletins and newsletters.

→ Directories

Compilations of resources such as organizations, legislation, and funding/training programs, for quick and easy reference.

Mission

- Informing the cultural policy and research community
- Encouraging evidence-based policy and planning
- Stimulating community debate and improved knowledge exchange

Partners

- Provide editorial guidance and strategic advice
- Suggest content to be published on Culturescope.ca
- Pool resources to create networking and exchange opportunities
- Moderate on-line communities within Culturescope Groups

Contact the Observatory

Email: info@culturescope.ca
Phone: 1 866 705-7484 (toll free)
TTY: 1 866 705-7485 (toll free)
Fax: 819 994-2410

The Canadian Cultural Observatory

15 Eddy Street, 8th Floor
Gatineau, Quebec K1A 0M5
CANADA

The Canadian Cultural Observatory is a collaborative initiative with partners from non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and from the public and private sectors.

The Observatory is funded in part by the Canadian Culture Online Strategy and is a collaborative initiative of the Department of Canadian Heritage.