

FREE Workplace Violence Prevention Planning Workshops

Under a new Occupational Health and Safety regulation, some workplaces must create a Workplace Violence Prevention Plan by April 1, 2008.

Workplaces include, but are not limited to: healthcare and related workplaces; educational settings; places where correctional or security services are in use; businesses where money is exchanged, liquor is sold or consumed; and other workplaces where employees interact with the public.

Attending this FREE workshop will help workplaces use their risk assessments to design a prevention plan that addresses their specific workplace violence risks. Workshops will be held at Nova Scotia Community College Campuses across the province.
