EXPLANATORY NOTES

SECTION 1 reorders the definitions in alphabetical order; adds new definitions for “license” and “lobster cookroom processing”, and amends the definitions for “primary processing” and “secondary processing”.

SECTION 2 provides a clear description of the type of processing being conducted at a processing establishment and the type of license needed to support the processing. The provision clarifies that it is the operator of a processing establishment who authorizes the processing of fish as opposed to an employee of the processing establishment.

SECTIONS 3 and 4 correct the references from lobster cookroom license to lobster cookroom processing license. The provision clarifies that a secondary processing license does not authorize the holder to undertake primary processing.

SECTION 5 specifies that the person referred to in the provision is the operator of a processing establishment and confirms that the operator of the processing establishment must hold a valid fish processing license that specifies the species of fish that may be processed by the operator.

SECTION 6 places a limit on the number of primary processing licenses the Minister may issue for lobster and groundfish. The amendment requires that the applicants for primary processing licenses are eligible to be issued such licenses only if they held such licenses in 1995 or 2005 and those licenses or any subsequent licenses have not been cancelled or revoked by the Minister. The provision clarifies that a person who constructs a replacement processing establishment must do so at the same location as the processing establishment being replaced.

SECTION 7 changes the references from subsection 6(4) to subsection 6(5) since the provision is being renumbered.

SECTION 8 corrects the name of the Department in the six Schedules.

SECTION 9 deletes, in Schedule 2, an unnecessary reference to the words “* Includes secondary processing”.

SECTION 10 corrects the reference from lobster cookroom license to lobster cookroom processing license in Schedule 3 to the regulations.

SECTION 11 provides for the commencement of these regulations.
