

2001 PALS: A MEASURE OF LOW INCOME

An earlier Fact Sheet in this series (Fact Sheet # 5) provided details on the income accrued to Ontarians (those who reported having a disability and those who reported no disability) through employment in 2000. This Fact Sheet looks at income through a family income measure developed by Statistics Canada in 1968 and updated regularly since then based on changes to the consumer price index.

The Low Income Cut-off (LICO) is based on family size and geographic location of the family. A family or unattached individual living below the LICO is a family or an unattached individual who spends 20% more of their total income than the average on basic expenditures of food, shelter, and clothing. Individuals who are part of this family are often referred to as “member of a low income family”. For example, if an individual with a disability is a member of a 4-person family and lives in a community with a population of 500,000 or more and this family has a total income of $30,000, this individual would be a member of a low income family.

Low Income Cut-offs for Families and Unattached Individuals, 2000
Size of Area of Residence
Family size	500,000 or more	100,000 to 499,999	30,000 to 99,999	Small urban regions	Rural (farm and non-farm)
1	18,371	15,757	15,648	14,561	12,696
2	22,964	19,697	19,561	18,201	15,870
3	28,560	24,497	24,326	22,635	19,738
4	34,572	29,653	29,448	27,401	23,892
5	38,646	33,148	32,917	30,629	26,708
6	42,719	36,642	36,387	33,857	29,524
7+	46,793	40,137	39,857	37,085	32,340
Source: Statistics Canada

Is an Ontario Adult with a Disability More Likely to be Part of a Low Income Family than His/Her Non-Disabled Peer?

Yes. An Ontario adult with a disability is more likely to be a member of a low income family than his non-disabled peer. Overall, 20.3% of disabled Ontario adults are a member of a low income family compared to 13.2% of non-disabled Ontarians.

With the exception of very young adults aged 15 to 19 years and seniors aged 75 to 79 years, Ontarian adults in every other age group are much more likely to be part of a low-income family than their non-disabled peers. This difference is particularly pronounced during the middle years and most significant among persons aged 45 to 49 years and 50 to 54 years.