

Saskatchewan
Justice

THE SUPPORT VARIATION PROJECT

Help for low-income parents who want to vary their child support order or agreement

SUPPORT VARIATION PROJECT
Rm 323, 3085 Albert Street
Regina, Saskatchewan
S4P 3V7

Phone: 1-306-787-5837 (Regina)
1-888-218-2822 (Toll-free)
Fax: 1-306-787-0107

E-mail: svp@justice.gov.sk.ca

This pilot project is made possible through the financial assistance of Justice Canada in collaboration with Saskatchewan Justice.

ADMISSION CRITERIA

SVP will facilitate variation requests where:

- the request is for variation of an existing child support order or agreement that is registered in a Saskatchewan court;
- one of the parents lives in Saskatchewan & fits within the program's income limits;
- the order is not under appeal;
- there is no ongoing appeal of any matrimonial order or judgment;
- there is no domestic violence concern;
- there has been no previous application to SVP within the last six months;
- there has been no unsuccessful attempt to vary the support order in court in the last six months;
- the support arrears have not been previously dealt with by a court or by a formal agreement;
- the ongoing court application is or will be adjourned.

Note: This is a pilot project: facilitated variations are only available in the Regina area. The Information & Resource Centre is available to the general public in person, or by phone, fax, and email.

INCOME LIMITS

The following is a rough guide to help you decide whether you or the other parent qualify financially for the Project's help. Contact the Project directly for more details.

The Saskatchewan parent's annual taxable income must be:

- under $27,000 for a family of 1-3
- under $32,000 for a family of 4
- under $36,700 for a family of 5
- under $41,500 for a family of 6
- under $46,500 for a family of 7