

BOOKS

JUNE 16
1904

BLOOMSDAY

Mr. Bloom with care recomposed his wet shirt. O Lord, that little limping devil. Begins to feel cold and clammy. After effect not pleasant. Still you have to get rid of it somehow. Complimented perhaps. Go home to nice and milky and say night prayers with the kiddies. Well, aren't they. See her as she spoils all. Spoil the stage setting, the round of some, perhaps. The name too. Amours of actresses. Nell Gwynn, Mrs Bracegirdle, Maude Gonne. Moonlight silver effect. In discursive bosom. Little sweetheart come and kiss me. Still I feel. The strength of the secret of it. Good for the sake of Dignam's. Cider that was. Otherwise I couldn't have. Makes you want to ask. Ask them a question they ask you another. Good idea. If you say: good evening, and you see she's on for conversation. Ask them a question they ask you another. Good idea. If you say: good evening, and you see she's on for it: good evening. O but the dark evening on the Appian way I nearly kissed her. Whew! Girl in Meath street that night. All the dirty things I made her say all writing of course. My arks she called it. To find one who you don't answer when they solicit must be horrible for them till they harden. And kiss my hand when I gave her the extra two shillings. Parrot press the button and the bird will squeak. Wish she hadn't called me sir. O her mouth in the park! And you a married man with a single woman. That's what they enjoy. Taking a man from another woman. Or even hear of it. Different with me. Get away from other chap's wife. Eating his cold plate. Chap in the Burton tady spitting back gumchewed

MARTIN AMIS AND A DOZEN
OTHERS ON THE JOYS
AND TERRORS
OF READING
ULYSSES

EXCERPT
PAGE 2
INTERVIEWS
PAGE 3

Hot Times, Summer in the City contest

WIN everything you need to take a vacation without leaving town!

For contest detail and entry visit any Indigo location or www.indigo.ca/summercontest. Contest closes July 15, 2001.

!ndigo

Books Music & more

www.indigo.ca