

Definitions

The terms child care expenses, eligible child, supporting person, net income, and earned income, used on Form T778, Child Care Expenses Deduction for 1998, are defined on this page.

Child care expenses

Child care expenses are amounts you or another supporting person paid to have someone look after an eligible child so that you or the other supporting person could:

- · earn income from employment;
- · carry on a business either alone or as an active partner;
- attend school under the conditions described in the section called "Did you or the other supporting person attend school in 1998?" on the back of this sheet; or
- carry on research or similar work for which you or the other supporting person received a grant.

Usually, you can only deduct payments for services provided in Canada by a Canadian resident. See the section called "Other situations" on the back for exceptions.

Eligible child

Child care expenses can only be claimed for an eligible child.

An eligible child is:

- your child;
- your spouse's child; or
- a child who was dependent on you or your spouse and whose net income in 1998 was $6,956 or less.

The child has to have lived with you or the other supporting person when you or the other supporting person had the expenses. The child must have been under 16 years of age at some time in 1998. However, the age limit does not apply if, during 1998, the child was dependent on you or your spouse and is mentally or physically infirm.

Supporting person

Child care expenses can only be claimed by the eligible child's supporting persons. You are a supporting person if you are:

- · the child's parent;
- the spouse of the child's parent; or
- an individual claiming an amount for the child on line 305, 306, 307, or 315 of your 1998 return.

There is another supporting person if the child's other parent, your spouse, or any individual claiming an amount for the child on line 305, 306, 307, or 315 of his or her 1998 return lived with you at any time in 1998 and at any time during the first 60 days of 1999.

Net income

Net income is the amount you would enter on line 236 of your return if you had no claim for child care expenses on line 214 and no social benefits repayment on line 235.

Earned income

Your earned income on line 5 in Part B of Form T778 is the total of:

- employment income (including tips and gratuities);
- net self-employment income, either alone or as an active partner (excluding losses);
- the taxable part of scholarships, bursaries, fellowships, and similar awards;
- net research grants;
- any earnings supplement received under a project sponsored by the Government of Canada to encourage employment;
- any earnings supplement received under a project sponsored under Part II of the Employment Insurance Act or any similar program; and
- disability benefits received from the Canada Pension Plan or the Quebec Pension Plan.

Who can claim child care expenses?

To know who can claim child care expenses, you need to determine if you are the only supporting person, or if there is another supporting person.

If you are the only supporting person, you can claim child care expenses you paid while the eligible child was living with you.

In most situations where there is another supporting person, you can claim the child care expenses only if you have the lower net income (including zero income).

If there is another supporting person and you have the higher net income, you can make a claim only if Part C or D of Form T778 applies.

If there is another supporting person and you have equal net incomes, you have to agree on which one of you will claim the expenses.

If you became a common-law spouse or married in 1998, you and your spouse have to consider your net incomes for the whole year. Include child care expenses you both paid for the whole year.

Canada Child Tax Benefit

For each eligible child who is under 7 years of age, there is a supplement of $213 to the basic benefit. The supplement is reduced by 25% of the child care expenses you and your spouse claim for children who are under 18 years of age.

Child care expenses claimed on your 1998 returns will affect the supplement you may be entitled to receive for the period from July 1999 to June 2000.

You can claim less than the maximum child care expenses allowable if it is to your benefit. If you do not need your full child care expenses to reduce your 1998 federal tax to zero, it may be better to claim only what you need, since this may increase your supplement for the above-mentioned period. Keep in mind, however, that you cannot carry forward unclaimed expenses to another year.

What payments can you claim?

You can claim payments made to:

- individuals providing child care services;
- · day nursery schools and day-care centres;
- educational institutions for the part of the fees that relate to child care services;
- · day camps and day sports schools; and
- boarding schools, overnight sports schools, or camps where lodging is involved.

You can also claim advertising expenses and placement agency fees.

When the child care services are provided by an individual, the individual must be a person other than:

- the child's father, mother, or a supporting person;
- a person for whom you or another supporting person of the child claimed an amount on lines 305, 306, 307, or 315 of the 1998 return; and
- a person under 18 who is related to you.

A related person is someone connected by a blood relationship, marriage, or adoption, such as your or your spouse's child, brother, sister, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law. Nieces, nephews, aunts, or uncles are not related persons.

Receipts – The individual or organization who received the payments must give you a receipt showing information about the services provided. When the child care services are provided by an individual, you will need the social insurance number of the individual. Do not attach receipts to your return. If you are using EFILE, show your receipts and form to your EFILE service provider. In either case, keep them in case we ask to see them.

Note

If you paid an individual to provide child care in your home, you may have some responsibilities as an employer. If you are not sure of your situation, contact us.

What payments can't you claim?

You cannot claim payments for medical or hospital care, clothing, transportation, or education costs.

You cannot claim expenses if you or another supporting person received, or are entitled to receive, a reimbursement of the child care expenses or any other form of assistance not included in income. If your employer paid the child care expenses on your behalf, you can claim the part of the expenses included in your income.

Did you or the other supporting person attend school in 1998?

You may be able to claim child care expenses to attend school if any of the following situations apply:

- You are the only supporting person and, at any time in 1998, you attended school under the conditions described below (see Part D of Form T778).
- You are the supporting person with the higher net income, and the other supporting person, at any time in 1998, attended school under the conditions described below (see Part C of Form T778).
- You are the supporting person with the higher net income, and you and the other supporting person, at the same time in 1998, attended school under the conditions described below (see Part C and Part D of Form T778).

The educational program has to be offered by a secondary school, college, university, or other designated educational institution. This includes any institution certified by the Minister of Human Resources Development for courses that develop or improve occupational skills. An eligible program has to last at least 3 consecutive weeks. A full-time program requires students to spend at least 10 hours a week on courses or work in the program. A part-time program requires students to spend at least 12 hours in a calendar month on courses in the program.

Other situations

When completing the return of a supporting person (of an eligible child) who died in 1998, claim eligible child care expenses that were paid while that person was living with the child as if he or she was the only supporting person. However, if there was another supporting person, that person is also considered the only supporting person of the eligible child, and can claim eligible child care expenses paid while living with the child, as long as the expenses were not claimed on the return of another person.

If you lived outside Canada for part or all of 1998 and we consider you to be a factual or deemed resident of Canada, you can claim child care expenses that you paid to a non-resident person for services provided outside Canada. We explain these terms under "Which tax and benefit package should you use?" on page 7 of the General Income Tax and Benefit Guide. For information on other circumstances in which you can claim child care expenses paid for services provided outside Canada (such as commuters to the United States), please contact us.

If you immigrated to, or emigrated from Canada in 1998, you can claim child care expenses for the period you were in Canada, as long as you otherwise qualify.

If you need more information, contact us. You can find the address and telephone numbers listed under "Revenue Canada" in the Government of Canada section of your telephone book.

CHILD CARE EXPENSES DEDUCTION FOR 1998

Before you start, please read the attached information sheet about child care expenses. We define the terms used on this form (child care expenses, eligible child, supporting person, earned income, and net income) on the information sheet. Attach a completed copy of this form to your return. Don't include child care expenses receipts, but keep them in case we ask to see them.

If you are the only supporting person, or you are the supporting person with the lower net income, complete Parts A and B. If you are the supporting person with the higher net income, complete Parts A. B. and C. If you attended school in 1998, read Part D to see if it applies.
