

Are you an Infection Prevention and Control (IPAC) professional looking for exciting work opportunities in a unique setting, in an organization offering one of the best compensation packages in Canada and a true work/life balance? Are you interested in working in a place like no other? Then a job with the Northwest Territories Health and Social Services Authority (NTHSSA) in Yellowknife or across the territory may be the perfect fit for you!

The NTHSSA is seeking territorial managers, coordinators, and specialists to support the development, implementation, management, and evaluation of the IPAC Programs within the NTHSSA. Our IPAC Division works collaboratively with stakeholders throughout the Northwest Territories to ensure IPAC standards and best practices are upheld, Accreditation Canada certification in the area of IPAC is achieved, and proactive infection prevention and control initiatives are carried out. The Division facilitates and supports the utilization of IPAC best practice standards to promote quality client and patient centered care while actively promoting a high quality, friendly, respectful workplace that is safe, healthy and supportive.

We are seeking experienced Infection Control Practitioners for both full-time and 3 – 6 month term positions.

Located above the 60th parallel, the Northwest Territories (population 44,500) awaits with seemingly endless lakes and unmatched vistas. Comprised of 33 communities, the Northwest Territories spans from the Alberta border, up the massive Mackenzie River, to the shores of the Arctic Ocean. Nestled alongside Great Slave Lake is the city of Yellowknife (population 19,600). The 'urban' centre of the territory, the Northwest Territories' capital city boasts all the amenities of a big city, while maintaining its small town charm, with outdoor wilderness adventures just minutes away.

Some great reasons to work for the Northwest Territories Health and Social Services Authority include:

- Health and dental benefits
- A generous pension plan
- Northern living allowance
- Leave (annual, mandatory, winter bonus, special, maternity/parental)
- Deferred leave options
- Relocation assistance
- Highly competitive salaries ($87,263 - $124,898)
- New Stanton Territorial Hospital and facilities
- Outstanding lifestyle in the Northwest Territories
- Professional development opportunities
- Education support for employees
- Recognized as one of Canada's Best Diversity Employers (2018)
- Recognized as one of Canada's Top Employers for Young People (2019)
- High engagement and satisfaction scores amongst employees based on the Employee Engagement and Satisfaction Survey (2016)
