Finding Municipal Records

209 Research Guide

Most Recent Update:
April 2017

The Archives of Ontario has a significant collection of local government records, dating from approximately 1821 to 1971. The collection contains records from all regions of the province. However, it is not comprehensive. There are more records from southern municipalities than other areas of the province. The Archives' collection includes some township and village records at the county level. Municipal records can include minutes and by-laws, assessment and collectors rolls, and general financial and administrative records.

Many other archives in Ontario hold municipal records. For more information, check with local municipalities, archives or public libraries

At the end of this guide, you will find two lists:

- descriptions of levels of municipalities
- words and terms that you may come across in your municipal records research.

THE RECORDS

Table 1 at the end of this guide lists the municipal records in the Archives' collection. It includes instructions for finding and using the records.

Confirming the Municipality's Name

In searching the Archives' municipal records, keep in mind that:

- A municipality's name and its administrative levels may have changed. Click here to view a permanent on-line exhibit, The Changing Shape of Ontario: A Guide to Boundaries, Names, and Regional Government.
- Many small Ontario communities were never incorporated as municipalities but included a post office or railway station. These places often are known by locally-recognized names.

The Archives has resources to help you to confirm the name of the municipality that you want to research:

- The detailed administrative histories for many of the municipalities in the Archives' collection include information on successor and predecessor municipalities.
- Series RG 19-20, Ontario Municipality Incorporation History files include historical background on all existing municipalities up to the early 1980s.
- Municipal Records in Ontario: History and Guide by Fraser Dunford (Ontario Genealogical Society, 2005) has information on municipal records and how to research them, and a list of townships, including any change in borders, amalgamations and changes of county.
- The annual Municipal Directory, produced by the Association of Municipal Managers, Clerks and Treasurers of Ontario (AMCTO), includes an excellent historical overview of amalgamations and name changes. The directory is available in the Archives' Reading Room. It can also be ordered from AMCTO. Click here to access the AMCTO web-site for ordering information.
- There are numerous reference books on Ontario place names in the Archives' Library, including Places in Ontario by Nick and Helma Mika and Place Names of Ontario by Alan Rayburn. Both are available in the Archives' Reading Room.
- The Gazetteer of Ontario (in the Archives' Reading Room) can help you locate a hamlet, dispersed rural community or other small centre. Its information is arranged alphabetically by geographic and settlement names. This will provide you with the township and county where these small communities are located. With that information, it should be possible to find out if there are relevant records.

Levels of Municipalities

There are several levels of municipalities: districts, counties, cities, towns, villages, police villages, townships, improvement districts. Here are descriptions of the different levels:

Districts, 1793-1849

Districts were the original unit for municipal and judicial administration in Ontario. From 1793 to 1838 officials of the districts were responsible for the assessment of real and personal property to undertake taxation for local improvements and district expenses. From 1793 to 1842, local assessors reported to the magistrates of the Courts of Quarter Sessions of the Peace. The magistrates were responsible for the municipal and judicial administration of the district. Beginning in 1842, District Councils were established to administer the collection of local taxes and to manage expenditures on local projects. The districts were abolished under Ontario Statutes 1849, chap. 78.

Districts, 1867-present

As the Province of Ontario expanded beyond the original boundaries of Upper Canada, it established basic units of government for the thinly populated areas north of the settled areas. In the north, these districts provide a basic administrative framework for municipal government similar to counties. Districts have less autonomy and are much larger in size than counties.

Counties

Counties were originally the basis for ridings in the Legislative Assembly. After the passage of the Baldwin Act (Canada Statutes 1849, chap. 81) they assumed the role of upper tier municipality. Administratively townships, villages, and most towns and cities form a part of the county. Counties are governed by councils. The councils are composed of the reeves and deputy reeves of the townships, villages, and non-separated towns and cities that form a part of the county.

Regional Municipalities

Regional Municipalities play the role of upper tier municipality for certain urban areas. Composition of the council may vary depending on the statute that created each Regional Municipality. The first Regional Municipality, Metropolitan Toronto, was created in 1954 while the other ones were created in the late 1960's and the 1970's.

Cities

As a unit of municipal government, cities pre-date both counties and townships (in 1834, Toronto was the first incorporated city). Traditionally, classification as a city has depended upon the size and density of a population. Cities are governed by elected councils consisting of a mayor and a number of councillors based on the population of the municipality. A number of cities in Ontario are classed as "separated", in that they no longer form a part of the county administration.

Towns

Like cities, a number of towns were incorporated before the passage of the Baldwin Act, reflecting significant urban concentrations within a geographic township. Towns are governed by elected councils consisting of a mayor and a number of councillors based on the population of the municipality. A number of towns in Ontario are classed as "separated" in that they no longer form a part of the County administration.

Villages

Like cities and towns, villages are incorporated when a community within a township reaches a certain population density that justifies the creation of a separate administrative structure. Villages are governed by elected councils consisting of a reeve, deputy reeves and a number of councillors based on the population of the village. A village is part of the county administration but not part of the surrounding township.

Townships

Townships are incorporated to provide local municipal government for rural communities. Townships have a council consisting of an elected Reeve, Deputy Reeves, and councillors, the number of which depends on the population of the township. Townships have always formed a lower tier of government within the county.

Improvement Districts

Improvement Districts are a form of local government established in unorganised territory when a rural community reaches an established size. Although they have similar powers to a township, the Improvement Districts are administered by an appointed Board of Trustees which is responsible to the Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing.

Police Villages

Police Villages were established under county by-law which provided for the appointment of a Board of Police, for a specific area within the county, with limited powers to pass by-laws and regulations for public order and maintenance. They formed a part of the surrounding township for all other purposes. Police Villages had no elected council and no taxation powers.

Words and Terms Used in Ontario Municipal Records

Assessment Rolls

Assessment rolls are used to record information about a resident's property in order to determine the amount of taxes payable on real property. The following information is recorded: land and building value; status as residence or business, religion (for school taxation purposes), age, and occupation of head of household and number of people living on the property. Other information is collected from time to time reflecting local or provincial requirements.

Board of Health

The Municipal Act requires local governments to establish Boards of Health to monitor and make recommendations to the municipal council regarding public health issues, including water quality and sanitation.

By-laws

By-laws are a form of legislation passed at the local level on matters under the jurisdiction of the municipality. They mainly relate to land use, public order, road closings, some expenditures and similar issues. They are enforceable by the District Court although many classes of by-law have been subject to approval by the provincial government (e.g., road-closings, capital expenditures and zoning by-laws).

Cash Books

Cash Books record municipalities' general incoming and outgoing cash transactions on day to day business.

Clerk-Treasurer's Records

This is a generic term that describes records like journals, ledgers, day books, and cash books which record the day to day financial and administrative management of the municipality.

Collectors Rolls

These volumes record much of the same information that is in assessment rolls plus additional information on payments and tax arrears.

Combined Rolls

Combined Rolls were introduced in many municipalities around the 1920s to replace the separate assessment and collectors rolls.

Committee of Adjustment

A Committee of Adjustment is a planning committee established at the level of a township, town, village, city or county/region. The committees examine requests to make changes to properties or buildings in partial violation of existing planning by-laws and to negotiate agreements between neighbours over conflicts in these matters. Decisions by Committees of Adjustment may be appealed to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Council Minutes

Council Minutes record the decisions, sometimes with supporting documentation, reached by the Municipal Council.

Councillor

A councillor is a municipal representative elected either at large or by ward.

Court of Revision

The hearings of this court relate to appeals against property tax assessments. Usually, the Court of Revision consists of the mayor or reeve and several councillors.

Debentures

Debentures are issued to raise money, generally for specific capital projects such as municipal roads or other types of infrastructure. Purchasers of debentures are paid back their initial investment plus a specified rate of interest over a period of years.

Journals

Journals record a municipality's day-to-day receipts and disbursements from all sources and in all forms.

Ledgers

Ledgers record credit and debit balances for the municipality. They are used to maintain general control over the financial situation of the local government.

Legislative Franchise

Property/income qualifications for municipal elections remained in place in Ontario well into the 20th century. The Legislative Franchise rolls list individuals who qualified for the municipal franchise, with details taken from the assessment rolls. The voters' lists are a less detailed version of the same type of document.

Mayor

The mayor is the elected head of a town or city.

Mother's Allowance Board

Provincial legislation allowed municipalities to establish local committees to assess applications for support made by widowed or abandoned parents.

Municipality

Municipalities are incorporated organizations with broad powers to administer local affairs and to raise money for these purposes through direct taxation on property and through debentures. The Archives of Ontario has records relating to districts, counties, cities, towns, villages, townships and local improvement districts.

Old Age Pension Board

Provincial legislation allowed municipalities to establish local committees to assess applications for support made by elderly persons (i.e., 65 year or older).

Reeve

A reeve is the elected head of a village or township.

Statute Labour

Before there was a comprehensive system of property taxes, repair work on bridges and roads was the responsibility of the fronting property owners. This work was described as statute labour. Instead of doing the physical work, a property owner could make a cash payment. Over time, the cash payments became the norm and contract labour did the work.

Ward

A ward is an electoral district within a municipality.

Explanation of Reference Codes

F (eg. F 1565 Township of Brunel fonds) - indicates original records and/or microfilm created by the Archives of Ontario.

D (eg. D 115 Village of Ayr diffusion material) – indicates diffusion microfilm created by FamilySearch of records for which the Archives of Ontario does not hold the originals.

RG 21 – formerly all municipal records had an RG 21 reference code. Some older microfilm and published material will use this old reference; however this listing uses current codes and titles.

Note: For some municipalities, there are both F and D reference codes, meaning two separate sets of records
