

Share your #OnlyOneEarth action for #WorldEnvironmentDay!

The theme of World Environment Day 2022 is “Only One Earth,” and we want to showcase the wave of transformative action already underway to protect and restore our common home.

We’re asking people and organizations around the world to use numbers to highlight their activities, and to post these on their social media channels and share on our world map to inspire others to take action for people and planet.

Taking part in “Earth Action Numbers” is simple, here’s how to join in 3 easy steps.

1

Decide the action you want to share and write your post as two points that each start with a number. Here are a few examples:

Example A:

2 million dollars of pension funds divested from fossil fuels.

1 university.

Example B:

60 bags of collected rubbish.

30 primary school students cleaning our river.

Example C:

5 people in our family home.

1 renewable energy provider powering it.

2

Help us put your action on the world map!

Go to <https://action.worldenvironmentday.global/>, log your action and get a downloadable social media card you can share with your followers.

3

Take a photo or record a short video showing the earth action you are taking. Get creative with the presentation! Then post it on your social media channels. Include your two Earth Action Numbers, and add #OnlyOneEarth and #WorldEnvironmentDay to the final line, like this:

1,235 kWh of solar energy.

10 electric buses in our city.

Make sure to tag @UNEP, as we’ll be curating community contributions on our digital channels.
